Farm Reminders

For poisoning the Douglas ground squirrel—the common gray digger—this is the best season, say experiment station authorities. During the months of May and June when the females and young are above ground they are readily exterminated. The squirrels are killed most effectively by means of poison grain. The grain is scattered along the squirrel trails and about the holes. Properly scattered poison does not endanger livestock, as the animals do not pick up enough to harm them.

The common barberry on which the grain smut is dependent during the winter months in Oregon, is best destroyed in the spring and summer when the leaves are easily recognized, say experiment station specialists. The bushes are dug completely out of the ground, with care that no pieces of roots are overlooked. If pieces are left in the ground young sprouts may grow from them.

Vegetable gardeners in western Oregon can find nitrate of soda as a good top dressing on spinach if broadcast between rains, according to A. G. Bouquet professor of vegetable gardening at the college. It should not be applied, however, when the plants are wet. Superphosphate may be mixed with the nitrate of soda to make it easier to apply. The rate of application is two hundred pounds of each an acre.

"Eat vegetables for vitamins," is the slogan on the attractive package labels recently issued by the Market Grower's Journal, national vegetable publication. The labels are in colors, with a basket of vegetables in the center, and space for the grower's name and advertisement. They are four by five inches in size and gummed for sticking to packages. The Market Grower's Journal offers them at a rate of $8.50 a 1000, and will be glad to submit samples to any vegetable grower who desires them to advertise his products.

A few hogs will go a long way toward paying the bills on any farm, but too many eat up all the profits. Base the number of hogs to be kept on the amount of waste available for hog feed, says the Oregon experiment station.

Rupture Expert Here

F. H. Seely, of Chicago and Philadelphia, the noted truss expert, will personally be at the Marion Hotel, and will remain in Salem, Friday, June 12, only. Mr. Seely says: "The Spermatic Shield will not only retain any case of rupture perfectly, but contracts the opening in 10 days on the average case. Being a vast advancement over all former methods, exemplifying instantaneous effects immediately appreciable and withstanding any strain or position no matter the size or location. Large or difficult cases, or incisional ruptures (following operations) specially solicited. This instrument received the only award in England and in Spain, producing results without surgery, injections, medical treatments or prescriptions. Warning—All cases should be cautioned against the use of any elastic or web truss with understraps, as same rest where the lump is and not where the opening is, producing complications necessitating surgical operations. Mr. Seely has documents from the United States Government, Washington, D.C., for inspection. He will be glad to demonstrate without charge or fit them if desired. Business demands prevent stopping at any other place in this section.

Time to Take Stock

Periodically the managers of every successful business must check their assets and liabilities to know where they stand. What is good for a business is good for a government. The people of this nation are the stockholders in the greatest business in the world, namely, the United States government.

Private business must constantly be on the alert to prevent bad accounts accumulating on its books. Failure to do this has wrecked many otherwise promising institutions. The people of this country must be diligent to keep bad accounts [ill advised legislation, exorbitant taxation, public officials and legislators with radical and visionary ideas] from clogging or destroying the machinery of government. Just as bad debts will wreck a business, so will exorbitant taxation, and unbalanced officials wreck a government.

It is well to take stock of ourselves six months after the last presidential election. Excitement of the political campaign is passed and all new public officials are in office. The nation has actually settled down to the first normal period of activity since the first gun was fired in the World War eleven years ago. We have what every other nation in the world is striving to secure, namely, sound domestic and financial conditions under a stable form of government.

Yet we have in this nation today, public officials, teachers and professional lecturers who would, if they could, undermine the sound basis on which we are operating and substitute in its place obstructive and destructive ideas which have destroyed the stability, safety and progress of some of the leading nations of the world.

That the people of this nation do not wish to see any experimental program adopted was made very evident at the last election.

But the work of the agitator never ceases. Hence our public officials and private citizens must be ever on their guard to prevent liabilities accumulating in the affairs of our government just as the managers of private business are constantly on their guard to prevent liabilities creeping into the affairs of private enterprise.

What a great thing it would be if, when our national Congress convenes, it would devote itself more largely to the affairs of government and less to the affairs of private citizens and private business than it has in recent years.

Never before in the history of the United States was the labor situation in such a healthy condition. Hours are reasonable and wages are good. We have legislation covering practically every phase of business activity. The workmen is protected. The public is protected. Industries are protected from unfair competition. Labor and capital are actually working in close harmony, and workmen through the purchase of the stocks and securities of the industries which employ them are sharing in the profits or losses of such enterprises.

Who is to be benefited by any program which would tend to unsettle such a satisfactory status? The people of this nation, as a unit, should demand that government business be permitted to continue along safe, sane and normal lines without the disturbing influence of uncalled for experimental measures and policies which tend to destroy the perfect balance which this country is maintaining today in its domestic relations.

An inventory of our national affairs will show that we are in a sound condition and with proper management we should continue in the same situation for an indefinite period into the future.
