Being a poor professor's wife has its disadvantages

PARTICULARLY when you have young daughters. How could she expect her girls to grow up into fastidious young womanhood in such a shabby place? "One's immediate surroundings do have such an influence," she sighed. "One's immediate surroundings"—the solution dawned on Mrs. Robey. From the store she bought large cans of ivory and gray Acme Quality Enamel-Kote, and smaller cans of dull rose and delicate blue and pale green. Then, while the girls were away on a visit, she painted all the woodwork and furniture in their rooms—one in ivory, the other in soft gray, with quaint garlands of flowers for decorations. For the windows she chose snowy swiss curtains, crisp and ruffled, and for the floors, delightful hooked rugs. You can't imagine what an effect it has had. Two such charmingly neat, well-groomed girls you have never seen!

Lick Home Town First, Good Advice to Boys

In a discussion entitled "How Can I Help My Boy Get Started," Bruce Barton gives sane counsel to the youth who thinks he can do better in New York city than in his own town. In his article in Good Housekeeping, the writer tells for the benefit of young men his experience with a lad he met in another city who felt himself called to the metropolis.

"It must be great to live in New York and meet so many interesting people," the boy said to him "Do you think I ought to go to New York?"

"No," I answered. His face fell. "Why not?"

"Because New York is full of chaps like you who have never done anything, and for the most part they lead very lonesome lives. You don't suppose these so-called 'interesting' people would have any interest in you, do you? Interesting people like interesting people. Success has no time for failures."

It was a shot between the eyes. He was silent for a full minute. His jaw set; it looked more than ever like his father's jaw.

"But I hate this town," he cried. "What's the use of staying in a place you hate? Why can't I start in New York?"

"Because it's a mistake to leave any town until you have licked it," I answered. "A man's life ought to be like the march of an army; he should conquer the territory as he travels, leaving no hostile forces in his rear."

"New York is the biggest thing in the country," I went on. "It's the champion, the Jack Dempsey, the Babe Ruth of all the towns. You can't step out and fight Dempsey right off. You've got to get a reputation; you've got to lick a lot of little fellows first. The place for you to start is here, in a town you don't like."

National Demand for Better Building Seen

There are a number of interesting statements in the semiannual statement of the American Construction Council, issued through its president, Franklin D. Roosevelt, recently. The statement was formulated at the meeting of the council held in New York city. Especially significant are the passages from the statement which follow:

"The increasing demand for better building, a movement which the council sponsored on a national scale last spring, is accompanied by a general undertone of increasing confidence as to the greater stability in the construction industry throughout the country as a whole.

"The amount of new work contracted for and begun has held up unusually well. This shows a very favorable response on the part of the public to the general movement.

"Even a more significant fact stands out as to the present type of building operations. There is a larger ratio of commercial and industrial structures contracted for than there has been for some time."

Ground Beautifying

Hardy plantings give permanent effects, and will grow more beautiful each season. Some bedding plants and annuals may be used also with effect, but where we are planting our own grounds for our home for an indefinite period we can get far better results if we use mostly hardy trees, shrubs and plants for our general planting. We need not plant all at once, but we can plan for the whole and work to our plan as we may. It takes years to obtain the full effect of some kinds of plants and these should be planted first, but we can use temporary plantings to help out in the meantime. There are a good many fine plants that can be made very effective on short notice, and even a good showing may be made with annuals from seeds in one summer. These quick effects are especially valuable for those occupying their homes but temporarily.—Successful Farming.

Planting of Pecans Urged

A suggestion for the beautification of country roads and advertisement of this section by planting pecan trees along the highways was received at the office of the board of revenue from W. C. Strong of Theodore. The letter explains that the trees would serve for ornamentation and shade and would be revenue producing in a few years. It was pointed out that the plan is being adopted in other sections of the country.

The suggestion was read to the board and filed.—Mobile Register.
