Motor Vehicle Lights

Must Be Legal

September 1, 1925, chapter 323 of the laws of 1925, regulating the adjustment of motor vehicle lights in Oregon goes into effect, and inasmuch as the law assumes that all motor vehicles within the state will have been provided with approved lighting equipment, properly adjusted according to legal standard, enforcement of the provisions of the law will begin upon that date by the traffic division of the department of the Secretary of State.

No lighting station can legally adjust lights until it has on display, in a conspicuous place, a certificate of authorization issued by the Secretary of State and no mechanic can legally adjust lights until he has been examined and licensed to do so, and his certificate of authorization must be made available upon demand. To date 44 light adjusting stations have been approved throughout the state and licenses have been issued to 119 qualified adjusters.

Applications for appointments as authorized light adjusting stations are being daily received, and as rapidly as they are equipped with facilities for testing and adjusting, they are inspected by an officer of the state traffic department, and if approved, a certificate of authority is issued. Applications are also being received for appointment as authorized light adjusters and licenses are being issued as rapidly as compliance with legal requirements is established.

The old magneto type of headlights will not meet with the requirements of the law and all cars operating under this type of illumination must be re-equipped with electric or acetylene systems before they can operate on the public highways after September 1. The change can be made at nominal cost.

Adjustment receipts cannot be issued by the adjuster for any device which has not been tested by the United States Bureau of Standards and approved by the Secretary of State. To date 17 different head lamps, reflectors and control devices have passed the test and been approved by the Secretary of State and this list is furnished each authorized light adjusting station and must be posted conspicuously upon a bulletin board provided for that purpose. As tests are completed additions will be made to the authorized lists.

A maximum charge of 75 cents is allowed by law for light adjusting service, exclusive of equipment to conform to legal requirements.

Florence Bingham and Lucille Lorette will sing a duet at the Baptist church Sunday morning.

D. E. Albright brought in an interesting specimen of nature's handiwork this morning in the shape of a tomato doughnut. Most doughnuts have to have the hole cut out of them to make a real doughnut but old mother nature is the one who put the hole in this "doughnut. Call and see it.

With this issue the Tribune completes its first year under our management. We have endeavored to give you a good community newspaper and while we realize it is impossible to please everybody we feel that the majority of our readers are satisfied. We hope by way of showing your appreciation you will call and pay your subscription for the coming year.
