County School Notes

The annual institute will be held in the high school building in McMinnville, Nov. 9-10. The institute has been restored under the old law, but for only two days instead of three. Every school in the county must be closed for the two days, each and every teacher must attend, and all district school boards are required to pay the teachers in full for the time spent at the institute. Each district will receive a $5.00 apportionment for each teacher in attendance.

The parent-teacher association of Dayton held the regular monthly meeting on Monday evening, Nov. 2. Mrs. Coburn addressed the meeting from the standpoint of the parent, outlining a very clear and definite policy, which in her opinion should be followed by the parents with reference to the outside amusements of the young people of the school. Among other splendid things, she said the homes of the parents should be open at all times for the social gatherings of the students, and that the parents should be willing to accept the position of chaperon instead of expecting the teachers to assume all the responsibility on such occasions. Needless to say the teachers present agreed with her heartily and the parents expressed themselves as being willing to do their share in making things pleasant for the young folks.

The matter of school lunches was taken up and Nov. 16 was set as the day for beginning the work the school year. This is no experiment with Dayton, as school lunches have been served in that school for several years. Mrs. Emily Nichols will have charge of the lunch.

Before the address of Mrs. Coburn, the children of the primary room gave a very interesting program. The policy of the teachers is to have some one room of the school take part in each meeting of the association.

The Junior Red Cross material has been distributed among the schools, and many of the teachers have already sent for the Junior Red Cross News, a paper which is intended to give the boys and girls a proper understanding of the great work of the Senior Red Cross.

The "health inspection" is being carried out in all the schools, and much good will result from this new phase of caring for the children. Parents will do well to investigate when a report of a child's condition is sent home by the teacher. Only children who seem to have some bad heart condition will be reported, but the results of the inspection of each child will be tabulated and filed in the school.

The programs for "American Education Week" were mailed to the schools on Nov. 3. If any school fails to receive one of these pamphlets, please report the fact to the county superintendent.

The county athletic association met in the court house a few evenings ago, and, after electing officers, made tentative arrangements for games for the year. Another meeting will be held during the week of the institute. The names of the officers for the year will be given in a later issue of the school notes.

It is certainly an inspiration to meet the Dayton, Amity, McMinnville school buses carrying their loads of high school students so comfortably and quickly to their respective schools. This is the beginning of a great movement, and it will result in every child's having just as good a chance to obtain an education as any other child. The good roads and rapid transportation are working miracles in many ways.

Frank Morgan is the new clerk Mr. Caldwell, the former efficient clerk, has removed from the district.

Miss Sara Mark reports that a new play shed is contemplated in district No. 12. Miss Mark is teaching her second year in this district. Halloween parties and programs were the rule last week end. Mrs. Grey, of Pleasantdale, No. 64, reports one at her school on the evening of Oct. 30. Mrs. Grey and in district No. 10, West Chehalis, Miss Eugenia Burch, the other teacher, furnished the people of the neighborhood a very pleasant evening.

The community club of Pleasantdale held the first meeting of the school year Oct. 30.

The directors of the Pleasantdale school have furnished the primary room with a sand table, and the other room with a reading table.

The directors of the Rex school are contemplating the installation of a new water system. If they do this their water problem will be solved.

The pupils who live down on the Peninsula, now feel themselves to be on an equal plane with other students, as their means of transportation to and from school is no longer old Dobbin and the wagon, but a Ford truck, equipped in approved style, with Phil Gates acting as chauffeur.

Last Friday night the chicken yard of R. L. Harris was visited, and out of the ten chickens he had, nine were killed. The chickens were badly bruised and mauled and the remaining one almost deprived of her feathers. The slaughter was evidently the work of a stray dog.

Tuesday night was the first real touch of winter, yesterday morning the walks were quite icy and the air full of fog. When we read about 20 below in Dakota, blizzards and zero all over the middle west and even in some places in the northwest, it seems mighty good to be where the roses bloom out of doors nearly the year around, it is a fact that the rosebushes now have roses on them.
