"Easy Money" Days Over

(From the Financial Post, Toronto) There is likely to be more real search for mining prospects of merit in the next ten years than there has been in the past. Prior to the collapse of the stock market boom, real finds were fewer and fewer; the reason was that claims were too easily marketed.

be better for the mining industry. In mining as in many other lines of endeavor, easy money is expensive money. Public support was obtainable for all sorts of propositions and most of them had only an outside chance of success.

Small Town Business

"Fine! I'll meet you. I'll forget the other half!"

A pretty weighty factor in determining the flow of business in a small town is that of personal friendship. The local people go to the same churches—belong to the same lodges—swat mosquitos at the same picnics.

der as that of the old-rag man who approached a sharp-visaged housewife with the query: "Any bottles, ma'am—any wine bottles?"

The element of personal contact is one of the factors in the situation with respect to the mail-order trade. What is the mail-order situation, taking it by and large? It is easiest to express it by index figures. Let us take the 1923-25 av-

"Morocco" Scene of Foreign Legion

The talking screen has found its voice of love in "Morocco," in which Gary Cooper, Marlene Dietrich and Adolphe Menjou will be seen at the Hartman Theatre, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. At infrequent intervals the motion picture industry produces a super-picture, one achieving the rare combination of power, sweep, artistry and universal appeal. "Morocco" is such a picture. It's the greatest love drama since "The Sheik."

"Morocco" is a story of a turbulent, fierce, all-consuming love; of a man and a woman swept into a maelstrom of emotions which neither of them desires and neither can resist. Love is wrung from their hearts, actually torn from them, and the compelling dramatic direction of this production sweeps all who see it along with the master theme.

Filmed on a majestic scale, against the colorful background of old-world Morocco and the intriguing French Foreign Legion, "Morocco" is epic in proportions, a contribution to cinema art which will lift its director, Josef von Sternberg, even higher in the ranks of the truly great motion picture makers.

Gary Cooper, private in the dare-devil Foreign Legion, whose business is fighting, whose pleasure is flirting, is attracted to Marlene Dietrich, beautiful cabaret singer, and strikes up an acquaintance with her. She, too, like Cooper, is a disillusioned being, believing in no man, scorning all love. Nevertheless, these two are powerfully drawn together in spite of themselves, and in spite of the efforts of Adolphe Menjou, wealthy, socially prominent, who also loves the girl, offers her love, wealth and social position. Cooper, seeing what the girl would have to give up for him, attempts to destroy her love for him; she, unwilling to hamper his free career, tries to fight his infatuation. Neither are successful. Inevitably they come together.
