

KIT 'N KABOODLE

By Ed. U. Kashun

S-o-o-o, someone is afraid Port Orford will become known as a speed trap if our police enforce the school-zone speed laws, eh? Well, the school-zone laws are pretty well publicized—and zones are damed well marked—and those who are caught speeding in them certainly should have no alibi, except that they just were breaking the law—and this writer has been guilty, too.

IF THE LAW IS WRONG, let's change it; if it's right, let's enforce it ALL LAWS—a n d when we get caught, pay up!

We hope the adult who furnished the intoxicants to three teen-agers last Friday night is happy—one of the boys lay in the rain for an hour, passed out, before he was found and taken home—no pneumonia yet, we understand. The others got home somehow—their parents should be real happy at their children's early success in life.

On the other hand: Ken Rundberg and Rodney Dunn will be representing Pacific high next Sunday - Monday at the Klamath Falls convention of student councils; Jerry Smith, Pacific high, was awarded the famous "Fred Meier Call" at the recent Oregon state fair; about half of those graduating from Pacific high last spring, and who wished to attend college were granted various scholarships.

And the list of those who have accomplished worthwhile things could go on and on—so, those few who "make the black marks" should not be taken as representative of the great majority.

The first home football game of the season will be played on Blanco Field tomorrow evening starting at 8 o'clock—come on out and support the "thin blue line" which represents YOUR high school this season—at least let 'em know you appreciate their efforts!

JAMES DANIEL JOHNSON

Private graveside services were conducted at Port Orford cemetery Monday, Sept. 18 at 1 p.m. for James Daniel Johnson, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Johnson.

The child was born September 14 in Southern Coos General hospital in Bandon and died the same day.

In addition to the parents, survivors include the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Johnson of Salem and Mr. and Mrs. Haldor Dahl of Port Orford.

The Bandon funeral home was in charge of arrangements.

A hearty thank you to you—for your fine support of this year's great Oregon state fair.

Again it has been demonstrated that state fair holds a special place in the affection and interests of our Oregon people. Patronage was excellent. Judging from the generous remarks about the "Show Window of Oregon", as our state fair has been termed, it pleased folks.

Your boosting helped produce the desired results. Thank you so much.

Sincerely, OREGON STATE FAIR Mrs. Marion T. Weatherford John O. Chapp Jack Stump Donald Ostensoe Ursel C. Narver, Chairman Howard Maple, Manager

Beachcombers Hold Business Meeting

The Beachcombers held a business meeting Monday night at the Ed Zastera home. Attending the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Britton, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Deavers, Mr. and Mrs. Ramey, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Zastera and Irene Silvers. A day of cleanup and work on the Cove was decided to be held this Sunday starting at 10:00 a.m. Members please come and bring potluck to be served at 1:00 p.m.

A big dance that is coming up on the 30th of this month with Bill and Irene Cyphert calling will start at 8:00 p.m. The club will furnish doughnuts and coffee for the dance.

The Ocean Spray Twirlers of Bandon have invited all of the Beachcombers for a potluck supper this Saturday night starting at 8:30. Dancing will follow. Please bring your own table service and something for the potluck.

Couples who wandered to North Bend last Saturday night to dance to the calling of Ruth Stillion and to help initiate the new hall above the airport were the Myers, Brittons, Rameys, Carrs, Wilsons, Silvers, Ed Zastera, Leonard Zastera, Deavers and Stan Babbs.

A south coast council meeting was held at the Skylaf last Sunday with dancing afterwards. It was rumored that Mr. and Mrs. Britton did not get enough dancing Saturday night, so they went back over to North Bend Sunday to attend the business meeting and to dance some more.

Watch the News for the date to be set soon for square dance lessons. Ernie Nelson will be teaching, and a better teacher with patience aplenty will be hard to find.

Adult Classes Set In Curry County

Fall term classes for adults in Curry county have been announced by the extension division of the Oregon state system of higher education.

In Brookings Ed 410: Methods of research materials in language arts is in progress. The Southern Oregon college course, offering three hours of graduate credit, had the first class meeting August 31.

Instructor is Robert Johnson, special education consultant, Curry county schools. Enrollments in general extension division classes are accepted

Press Management To Meet with SIAC

Salem—Plans for a one-day conference between the members of the newspaper publishers and the state industrial accident commission have been jointly announced by Sidney B. Lewis, chairman of the commission and Carl C. Webb, manager of the Oregon Newspaper Publisher association for Friday, September 22. There will be special emphasis on the problems and data which determine workmen's compensation rates and future legislative plans.

The meeting has been called as one of a series of face-to-face conferences with key industries to enable both industry and the commission to understand and work out solutions to problems each must face in the industrial accident field.

In addition to the rate discussion by Roy Green, actuary, other commission matters will be aired by James Wiles, director of the accident prevention division, and Francis Ely, supervisor of the claims division.

"I am sure there are questions in the minds of publishers which could be answered, at least partially, by such a session," Mr. Webb told Mr. Lewis upon receiving the invitation for the meeting.

Rural Traffic and Gas Use is Up

Rural traffic on Oregon's highways increased 3.1 per cent during July, 1961, over July of the previous year, according to results from 84 traffic recorder locations of the Oregon state highway department. This brought the increase for the first seven months of 1961 to 10.4 per cent greater than the same months of last year.

At five recorder locations reflecting urban traffic, July showed a 1.9 per cent increase in 1961, bringing the composite change for the first seven months over a similar period in 1960 to 3.5 per cent.

The first day of July, the Saturday beginning the long "Fourth" holiday, saw the greatest number of cars passing recorder locations. Heaviest hour of traffic occurred most frequently between four and five p.m.

Oregon gas consumption during June, 1961, increased 0.40 per cent over June of last year, bringing the first six months total to an increase of 5.35 per cent over the same months of 1960.

LUNCHEON GIVEN FOR MRS. SWITZER

A luncheon was given for Mrs. Ray (Ethel) Switzer Tuesday at the Orford cafe. Others present were Mrs. Geneva Tucker, Mrs. Doris Wells, Mrs. Lloyd Bates, Mrs. Eunice Babbs and Mrs. Virginia Krigbaum.

Mrs. Switzer is a past member of the Lions Auxiliary who is now living in North Bend. Her husband was formerly chief of police in Port Orford.

on either a credit or a non-credit basis. Registrations should be completed by the first class meeting.

Students who earn credit in extension classes may transfer full credit to any state system institution or elsewhere subject to individual requirements.

Fees of $11 per credit hour are consistent with charges of state system campuses.

Further information is available from the general extension division office on the college campus in Ashland.

Day Business Classes in Steno And General Office Nearly Full

The president of Southwestern Oregon college, Dr. Wendell L. Van Loan, announced Sept. 12 that there was room for only 12 more day time business education students. The facilities at the Coos Bay campus are limited which will require a limit on enrollment.

The two curricula, stenographic and general office, are held from 9:00 a.m. until 2:25 p.m. Monday thru Friday at the Coos Bay campus. The first class of the fall term starts September 25 and ends December 16. The winter term starts January 2 and ends March 17. The spring term starts March 26 and ends June 9. Both curricula requires each student to have a high school diploma or proved satisfactory competency. Shorthand, typing and bookkeeping are taught from the beginning but at an accelerated pace. Business English requires a basic knowledge of grammar. Special class hours are scheduled to help those that show need. Office machines include business mathematics which requires a good background of the fundamentals of math. If the student has had prior training in any of the subjects he or she can take a qualifying test and be given credit for that subject. The cost is $65 a term, ($195 for one year) and about $60 for books the first term. With cost of travel included the full year should not exceed $300. This, said Dr. Van Loan, is very low in cost for value received. This training will qualify a person for a starting position in an office. Additional training can and should be had through the night classes.

The day business school will take the students full time. Dr. Van Loan warns—much study and homework is required, and the student is requested not to work and carry a full load. A partial load is possible but will require a longer time to complete. Both day and night classes are open to all from 18 to 80. Last year the age ranged from 18 to 51 with many between 25 and 40. This is an ideal way for any man or woman to learn employable skills. The night classes consist of bookkeeping, shorthand, typing, office machines, business English and office procedures. The schedule of these classes will be announced soon. Dr. Van Loan cautioned again that the day business school has a maximum limit and will be filled on a first come first serve basis. Anyone planning on attending should call, write or come in to the Coos Bay campus office in room 15 of the east branch at Marshfield and fill out an application blank. A counseling interview can be arranged at most any time with Donald Moffitt, chairman of the business education department.
