How To Live With The Energy Shortage

The following are suggestions for energy conservation and may make it easier for everyone to cope with shortages of energy and fuel. Although incomplete, practitioners will discover other practices themselves. Suggestions come from a wide variety of government and industry sources.

STRETCH GAS MILEAGE

1. Warm up engine before driving.
2. Avoid jackrabbit starts.
3. Drive at steady speeds.
4. Keep reasonable distance between your car and the car ahead.
5. Do not idle engine needlessly.
6. Avoid congested traffic.
7. Reduce speed in highway driving.
8. Combine trips to supermarket, drugstore, etc.
9. Keep tires properly inflated.
10. Don't overuse air conditioners.
11. Check mileage periodically to see how you and your car are performing.
12. Keep engine in top shape.

CONSERVE HOME HEAT

1. Keep doors to garage, attic or basement closed.
2. Check insulation, seals around doors and windows and close fireplace damper when not in use.
3. Have home-heating unit cleaned once each year and replace filters regularly.
4. Reduce thermostats to family comfort level and avoid changing.
5. Turn off heating system at night.
6. Investigate feasibility of storm doors and windows in your home.

COOL HOMES JUDICIOUSLY

1. Electric appliances, television sets and radios create heat.
2. Make certain cooling systems function properly and are adequately filtered.
3. Keep doors and windows closed when operating cooling units.
4. Keep rooms cooler by drawing drapes or shades on sunny days.
5. Remember, light colors reflect heat, dark colors absorb heat.
6. Provide exhaust system for kitchen and bathroom to eliminate heat from bathing and cooking.
7. Be certain clothes dryers are properly vented, never overload and clean lint filter regularly.

CARE IN THE KITCHEN

1. Always turn off stove surface units and ovens when not in use.
2. Avoid opening oven doors while cooking.
3. Open regrigerator and freezer doors only when necessary. Combine trips to both appliances whenever possible.
4. Use minimal amounts of water in cooking.
5. Use cooking utensils with flat bottoms, straight sides. Use pans that fit surface units. Glass and ceramic vessels conserve oven heat.
6. Conserve oven heat by cooking more than one meal at a time. Refrigerate or freeze spare meal. Adequately thaw all frozen foods before warming or cooking.
7. Make certain dishwashers completely filled before using.

April Log Exports Off

A total of 234.4 million board feet of softwood logs, Scribner scale, was exported from all ownerships in Washington, Oregon northern California, and Alaska in April 1973. The April volume was down 28.3 percent from record high March 1973 exports and down 10.4 percent from the April 1972 total, according to research economist David Darr of the U. S. Forest Service, Pacific Northwest Forest and Range Experiment Station in Portland.

Some 217 million board feet, or 92.6 percent of the April 1973 west coast log exports, went to Japan.

April exports from Washington and Oregon totaled 222.8 million board feet, down 28.9 percent from the March volume. April shipments from northern California totaled 7.5 million board feet, 35.2 percent less than the March volume. Alaska exported a total of 4.1 million board feet in April, compared with 2.3 million board feet in March.

Douglas-fir accounted for 32.6 percent of April exports and Port Orford-cedar, 0.2 percent. Other softwoods, primarily western hemlock and true firs, made up the remaining 67.2 percent.

April shipments had a total value of $61.7 million at port of exportation and an average value of $263.04 per thousand board feet, down sharply from the record-high average value of $281.33 for March. Douglas-fir averaged $262.44 per thousand board feet; Port Orford cedar, $177.38; and other softwoods, $263.52.

Export of softwood logs from the west coast totaled one billion board feet through the first four months of 1973, 22.6 percent more than for the same period of 1972.

Bill To Help Rural Growth

A bill aimed at spurring economic growth in rural communities throughout Oregon was unanimously approved June 6 by the House State and Federal Affairs Committee.

Committee chairman Rep. Les AuCoin (D-Wash. County) said such growth is necessary for the economic health and well-being of non-metropolitan communities.

He pointed to chronic unemployment in 33 of Oregon's 36 counties, the continuing exodus of people from rural to urban areas, and the inability of rural communities to compete with metropolitan areas for new industry.

"These are symptoms of an economic illness we can cure," AuCoin said. "The best remedy is found in new jobs, new money changing hands locally, and a broadening of the tax base—and these are the goals of Senate Bill 224."

The measure is one of several recommended by the Senate Task Force on Economic Development following a six-month study of the economic needs and wishes of people in all areas of Oregon.

In its report to the 57th Legislative Assembly, the Task Force concluded that efforts to spread economic development more evenly throughout the state would be welcomed by citizens in every area.

Senate Bill 224 would create an Economic Development Department to replace the present Economic Development Division of the Governor's Office.

A five-member commission would be appointed by the Governor, subject to Senate confirmation, to set policies and define priorities for the new department.

Consumer Information On Home Furnishings Available

Major items of home furnishings not only cost a considerable amount of money, but they tend to be around a home for quite awhile. It is not surprising that consumers are concerned about making the best purchasing decisions possible, says Dora Rumsey, Curry county extension agent.

A new way of providing help to those who are shopping for home furnishings is in the test stage at Oregon State University. Five "Consumer Portfolios" have been assembled to provide shopping guidelines, plus factual information on materials and construction, care, and buymanship techniques. The home furnishings items covered are rugs and carpets, resilient floor coverings such as linoleum and vinyl, upholstered and wood furniture and window treatments of all kinds.

A limited number of portfolios are available to consumers who are in the market now for one or more of these home furnishings items. In return for being given a portfolio free of charge, each consumer will be expected to return an evaluation form within one month, giving an opinion of the usefulness of each of the publications included in the portfolio. On the basis of these evaluations, the OSU Extension Service will decide whether to make the portfolios available on a continuing basis.

Anyone wishing to obtain a Consumer Portfolio is invited to call or stop by the Extension Office in the county office building in Gold Beach, phone 247-7011, extension 226. Brookings residents may call the toll free number 469-4600, ext. 226, and northern Curry county may use the toll free number Commerce 9213, ext. 226.

Youth Loans Available Through FHA

Farmers Home Administration can now make loans to individual rural residents under 21 years of age. These loans may be used to establish and operate income producing projects in connection with 4-H, Future Farmers of America, Future Homemakers of America and similar youth organizations.

The basic objective of this loan program is to provide youths an opportunity to gain practical business experience through planning, processing, and conducting a farm or non-farm enterprise.

To be eligible for a Youth Loan, the applicant must be a United States citizen, be under 21 years of age, live in a rural area (or in a town of less than 10,000 population), be unable to secure a loan from other lending sources, conduct an income producing project in 4-H, Future Farmers of America or similar youth organizations.

The applicant must have maturity, good character, and be capable of planning, managing and operating his project under guidance and assistance from his project adviser. The project adviser must agree that the project is a good one and recommend that the loan be made. If the youth is under legal age, the parent or guardian must also agree to the project, although in most cases they will not be expected to co-sign the loan.

Individuals in Coos and Curry County who are interested in learning more about the Youth Loan program should contact the County Office in Coquille at 209 North Adams Street, or phone 396-2504. The Supervisors are in the office each Monday to meet with individuals interested in any Farmers Home Administration loan program. Office days in the Gold Beach area are the second and fourth Wednesdays from 1:00 to 3:00 p.m. at the Extension Office in Gold Beach.
