

Couple Celebrate Fifty Years

MR. AND MRS. FRANK MORRIS, SR.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morris, Sr., were honored at a reception Sunday afternoon in celebration of their 50th wedding anniversary. The event was hosted by their five children: Frank Morris, Jr., a teacher at St. John's Episcopal School in Agana, Guam; Mary Lou (Mrs. Lou Beebe) has three sons and lives in Portland; Margaret (Mrs. Doug Heiken) who has two sons and lives in Anchorage, Alaska; Caroline (Mrs. Keith Stewart), has one son and a daughter and lives in Coos Bay; Ruth (Mrs. Martin Lowy) has a son and a daughter and lives in Union City, Calif.; Billie Jean (Mrs. Harry Helmken) Desert Hot Springs, Calif., has two sons and twin daughters.

Frank was born on a cattle ranch in Texas. He also worked in the oil fields there, and farmed in the Panhandle of Oklahoma until sandstorms put them out of business. He served for a time as Justice of the Peace in Boise, Oklahoma.

Tronie graduated from Wichita Falls, Texas, high school, then moved to Dallas where she worked as a stenographer until she met and married Frank in 1925. They moved to Port Orford in 1940 when he worked for the old Trans-Pacific sawmill for a year. The couple left for California then, where he worked as a steam fitter and plumber during World War II. In 1944 they returned to Port Orford and Frank was employed in the woods until he went to work for the City of Port Orford in 1955 as water superintendent. He retired from that position in 1970. Prior to working in the city, the family lived up the Sixes River.

Frank has served as secretary of Port Orford Lodge No. 170, A.F. & A.M. and was Worshipful Master in 1958. He and Tronie are also past Worthy Patron and Matron of Eastern Star. Tronie is a past president of the Legion auxiliary and Frank is a past Commander of the Legion.

A family dinner was held Saturday evening at the Thunderbird Motel in Coos Bay. Other family members present included Frank's sister, Mrs. Jessie Young, Houston, Texas; a brother, Mr. and Mrs. Billy J. Morris of Italy, Texas; a sister, Mrs. Winnie Bell Lucas and her husband, New Braunfel, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Lucas of Eugene; and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Heiken of Santa Barbara, Calif.

More than 200 friends attended the Sunday event, including W. Dexter Elliott, Grand Secretary of A.F. & A.M. of Oregon, Forest Grove; and Past Grand Master of Oregon Ed Troyer, Coos Bay; and many other officers and members of the Masonic Order.

Members of the Eastern Star assisted the Morris daughters in serving three cakes, punch and coffee.

Herdsmanship Winners Told

Team work and dedication won three Brookings 4-H clubs top honors in the herdsmanship contest at this year's Curry county fair.

The poultry and rabbit herdsmanship award, sponsored by Knox Building and Farm Supply, went to the Rabbits Galore Club led by Mrs. Beulah Parke. The reserve champion was Jim Tompkins' Pacific Rainbow Club also of Brookings, who had both rabbits and poultry. The Busy Buddies Livestock Club led by Mr. and Mrs. Jim Parke was really busy this fair when members walked off with the Ryan Rotating trophy for the livestock division. The Coshegopigbits of Gold Beach, led by Mr. and Mrs. Bill Remy, were runners up in this category which included dairy, beef, sheep, goats, and swine. The Southern Oregon Production Credit Association Rotating award for horses went to the Chetco Outcasts led by Pam Ross. They squeaked past the Surf Riders of Port Orford by a nose. The Surf Riders leader is Clara Hefner. Horse scores were all high.

Judges score the clubs on herdsmanship two to three times a day. The scores are based on the cooperation, courtesy and appearance of the club members, the cleanliness of the barn area, and the care taken of the animals.

Two Recipes For Spaghetti Squash

A garden vegetable popular with Oregonians this year is the spaghetti squash. It cooks into tender crisp strands instead of a soft pulp, and can be used in a variety of dishes, says Oregon State University's acting Extension food and nutrition specialist, Nellie Oehler.

Spaghetti squash can be eaten in the early summer, or it can be grown to maturity and saved for winter use.

For summer use pick squash when it is green and about 8 inches long and 2 to 2 1/2 inches in diameter. The young squash can be sliced, breaded and fried like summer squash, or it can be eaten raw in salads. To eat raw, cut squash in half crosswise. Remove seeds and nesting material around the seeds; pull out the stringy flesh with a fork. Add to tossed salad for added texture and flavor.

For winter use let squash mature on vine until yellow. Pick before first frost. Store in a cool dark place. To cook, drop the whole squash into a pan of boiling water and cook until just tender (35 to 45 minutes). Cut squash in half crosswise. Scoop out cooked "spaghetti" and serve with your favorite spaghetti sauce.

OREGON DRUG ALERT

A harmful contaminant has been found in an illicit sample of Phencyclidine (PCP) obtained in Coos Bay which can cause dissociative amnesia, and possibly coma and death. Because of Phencyclidine's frequent appearance on the street market where it is often misrepresented as LSD, mescaline, psilocybin, THC and/or cannabinal, the Drug Information Center is issuing a state-wide drug alert for all samples of PCP in Oregon obtained on the illicit market.

The appearance of PCP in illicit samples that are reputed to be other drugs has been a hazard to non-medical drug users in Oregon since the late 1960's. Phencyclidine's effects on humans (it is legally prescribed as a veterinary tranquilizer) vary depending on dosage and the individual, but the drug is toxic at low doses, and deaths have been confirmed from less than 150mg. Small quantities of the drug (10-20mg) can induce coma with attendant amnesia in individuals for periods of one-half to one hour. In addition, severe loss of muscular coordination (ataxia) and convulsions can occur with relatively low doses.

The availability of phencyclidine is primarily the result of illicit manufacturing rather than diversion from legal sources. In addition to PCP, illicit manufacturers have also used a chemical analog of the drug, TCP (thiophene analog), in place of PCP. Both drugs are difficult to synthesize and purify.

The sample obtained from Coos Bay contained quantities of TCP and the unremoved contaminant, PCC. A major side-effect was dissociative memory loss. Since the drug was submitted as a sample of PCP, and since PCP is frequently sold as THC (the active ingredient in marijuana preparations) or cannabinal to young, novice, or naive illicit drug users, the danger to their health must be considered quite real. Furthermore, the distribution pattern of illicit agents in Oregon in that this or similar preparations are available in other areas of the state.

The Drug Information Center is urging all individuals with samples of alleged PCP, LSD, mescaline, psilocybin, THC, or cannabinal to have their drugs analyzed for content to determine the presence of PCP or PCC.

4-H'ers To Aid At State Fair

About 2,500 exhibits and 3,000 young men and women will represent the state's 4-H program at the 1975 Oregon State Fair in Salem Aug. 23 through Sept. 1, points out Dora Rumsey, Curry county Extension agent.

"State Fair is a showcase of the 4-H program, with exhibits representing 4-H members' interests and activities from throughout the state," she adds. "In addition, more leaders and members are actively involved in all phases of State Fair each year, helping them learn even more about 4-H and giving them a chance to expand their knowledge and interests."

For interest, about 100 4-H leaders will serve as hosts in the 4-H exhibit building at State Fair this year. The leaders will be available to answer questions and explain 4-H programs to fairgoers.

More than 100 older 4-H members will serve as members of the fair's "teen staff." The teen staff is in charge of various activities and programs as well as acting clerks for judges and performing other duties, such as providing commentaries for the public during the 4-H livestock show.

The teen staff first appeared at State Fair last year, explains Duane Johnson, Oregon State University Extension 4-H and youth specialist, and worked so well that the program is being continued this year. In keeping with the fair theme of Salute to the Sea: Neptune's Harvest, the 4-H marine science program will be one of the featured displays in the 4-H exhibit building.

In addition, Lane county 4-H leaders and members are planning a new and different display for the 4-H foods exhibits, while Clackamas county 4-H leaders and members are planning the display area for 4-H creative arts works. Marion county 4-H members and leaders, for the second year, are in charge of the 4-H garden exhibit.
