Statewide help is now available to adults who are interested in going to college

The State of Oregon announced today that it has launched a toll-free Adult Learner Resource Line (1-877-84U-4NOW) and website (www.OregonOpportunities.gov) for Oregonians interested in returning to college, or enrolling for the first time. Funded through a $1.4 million grant from the U.S. Department of Education, the Adult Learner Line is specifically for Oregonians ages 25 and older who are interested in going to college, but need some help and direction on how to enroll, seek financial aid, and generally navigate the process. The Adult Learner Line and website are just one component of the College Access Challenge Grant Program (CACGP) funded last year through the federal government, which is directed at increasing awareness of and access to postsecondary education in Oregon.

"In a time when we're seeing increased demand for higher education, the Adult Learner Line and website are great resources for Oregonians interested in going to college, but who aren't quite sure how to get started," said Joe Holliday, assistance vice chancellor for student success initiatives for the Oregon University System, and the director of the CACGP. "All of Oregon's public and private, nonprofit colleges and universities are involved in this initiative, and are working collaboratively to reduce the barriers that often hinder prospective students from enrolling in a community college or a 4-year college or university. This is a great resource to help Oregonians meet their education and training goals, and we're thankful to the U.S. Department of Education for making resources available that directly help people in our state meet their education and training goals."

Oregonians can access the Adult Learner Line Monday-Friday,
