CHERRYVILLE

April Showers all right.

A few days of warm rain will do a lot of good.

C. A. Weatherford came home last Saturday from Deer Island where he is employed on a big ranch, to spend Sunday with his family.

Shingle mill got an order recently for 400,000 shingles and the party who ordered them said they were the best shingles he ever saw and would want as many more before long. Over 75,000 were packed last week and the mill will run to full capacity as long as the water lasts. In the meantime millions of feet of cedar stubs and logs are awaiting use here in every direction, doing no one any good on this R. R. land which the S. P. R. R. says is good for nothing but still refuse to sell it for $2.50 as they contracted to do more than 40 years ago. Our remarkably bright statesmen have allowed this thing to hang fire all this time, cheating the people out of homes and beating the state out of an immense lot of taxes which they could have derived out of thousands of homes. Our Representatives are nearly always R. R. lawyers.

Mr. and Mrs. Hussock came up from Portland on their motorcycle Sunday to visit at the hotel and enjoyed a pleasant time and a delightful day.

A REAL BLIZZARD.

It Was the Worst Snowstorm New England Ever Experienced.

In February, 1717, occurred what is considered to have been the greatest snowstorm that ever visited this country—or perhaps any other. So deep was the fall that practically all through the New England states people were barricaded in their homes, and it was a considerable time before that section was opened up for traffic.

Accompanying this snow there were a terrific tempest and a very low temperature. It was not only in sections, but all over the north, and at many places it drifted to the extent that it may be said that "whole villages were snowed under."

The blizzard caused a very heavy damage to property and especially to live stock. Thousands of cattle perished throughout the country because their owners were unable to go to their assistance, and many remarkable instances were related of rescues. On one New England sheep farm it is said that 1,100 sheep, the property of one man, were found dead, and one flock of a hundred, on Fisher's island, were found buried sixteen feet in the snow. Two of them only were alive, they having subsisted on the wool of their companions for twenty-eight days after the storm.—Philadelphia Press.

Study of Synonyms.

Little Dulcie was asked by her teacher to define the word "whimsical." "It means 'odd,'" she replied. "And now," the teacher went on, "please write a sentence containing the word properly used."

Hesitatingly the little ten-year-old took up a pen and after a moment's thought wrote, "There are two kinds of numbers—whimsical and even."
