DOVER

About one inch of beautiful white snow fell and covered the earth last Saturday night, but did no damage.

Mr. & Mrs. John Schmeltzer and children, of Scholls, Oregon, visited at Morrison's over Sunday. He did some Walnut grafting while there.

The F. D. T. Co., linemen put in a telephone on the Marmot line Monday. They have finished building the line into Bull Run community and installed phones for A. C. and Mack Thomas the first of the week.

Orylle Evans and A. J. Morrison made a trip to the Cherryville fish hatchery last Saturday.

Mrs. Updegrave and son Charles, went to Pleasant Home last Thursday and bought four fine pigs six weeks old, for which they paid three dollars each.

Charles Updegrave says if the McCabe Hill is not fixed he will be forced to discontinue that part of his cream route as there is danger of overturning the wagon. It is a deplorable condition for any community to allow roads to get so bad.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Guthrie and little son called on the P. F. Evans family last Saturday.

Our Supervisor, Udell, put the roads in fine shape last week by going over them with the grader.

Donald Bodley and Birch Roberts took in the dance at Cherryville Saturday night and report a fine time.

The snow and continued rain has put the kibosh on farming operations for a few days.

CHERRYVILLE

We're on the water wagon again.

The more rain the more rest.

The grass and green growing vegetation of all kinds are making great growth.

Dr. Jayne and son, of Sheridan, Oregon, are out on their ranch north of town formerly occupied by Howard Watkins.

Mrs. Martin and her sister, Mrs. Mahorn, of Portland, are out on their R. R. claims.

Wm Walker and wife have moved out from Lents to their ranch east of town that they bought from Andrew Oaks.

The dance at the Dr. Botkin place, given by Mrs. Steenks as a farewell party to Mrs. Reitzman, was very well attended last Saturday night there being 61 present. The music was furnished by Birch Roberts and Donald Bodley assisted by Mrs. St. Clair and C. W. Harris. Refreshments were served at midnight.

The Smith brothers and families, of Bridal Veil, were out to the hotel last Saturday and attended the dance given by Mrs. Steenks.

A wildcat grabbed a lamb at August Berdensleins one day last week and attempted to carry it off, but couldn't make it. It bit off more than it could chew.

William Webber has a Loggenburgh nanny goat which gives a nice mess of rich nutritious milk and gets a living out of the brush. They are the poor man's cow.

Work is delayed on the road by the rain, but certainly big improvement has been made between showers. The road boss, or county superintendent of roads, Mr. Roots, is expected out this week to lay out some new work.

The Serois, father and son, certainly put up a fine, strong fence for Mr. Freel, Jr., in a hurry and the whole cleared land is now enclosed. This desirable ranch puts on a much better appearance already.

Young John D. says in his Colorado Plan that he has seen his father take little Italian boys in his automobile and give them a ride. It would be much more to the point to see that they had good clothes to wear and occasionally something to eat. We don't want any more churches and colleges. We are loaded down with them now, but we do want a better chance to live.

Sugar and everything else that every family is obliged to wear and consume is going up every day and great corporations like the U. S. Steel Co., and other great combinations of greed and wealth announce a raise in wages of 10 per cent with a great flourish of trumpets. If these fellows don't look out they will die of enlargement of the heart.

Wine and the Bush.

In olden times ivy bushes used to be hung over the doors of taverns as sign boards because the plant was sacred to Bacchus, the god of wine.

Trough For Pigs.

The feeder can pour slops into this trough without having an earnest and overhungry litter of pigs climbing his bootlegs and spilling the feed from the bucket. It extends possibly a foot on the outside of the pen and makes feeding easy and simple. The two uprights will be needed to hold the trough in place. That common accident of having part of the slop spilled by the hogs or having them thrust head and shoulders under the stream from the pail will be prevented by this.—Farm Progress.

Where to Plant Orchards.

A year or so ago a young farmer was told to set his orchard on a hill where the trees would not be so likely to suffer from late frosts as they are down in a valley. The cold air settles down into the valley and drives the warm air up, which protects the trees on high ground, while those on the low ground may suffer.

The young farmer now says that he notices the buds on the trees down in the valley are the first to swell. That is another reason for keeping fruit trees up on high ground. Trees that are down in a valley, protected from cold winds, are apt to start early, and the buds, being early, are all the more likely to suffer from late frosts. Plant orchards on high, sloping ground where are good air and drainage, and less trouble than otherwise will be experienced with late frosts.

No Robbery.

"I don't know just what to think of that storekeeper."
"What's the hitch?"
"He told me to come in and tell him what I don't know, so he can tell me what he knows."
