Better Class of Candidates

Candidates for state and legislative offices are making saner bids for popular votes in the primaries this year than formerly.

Their platforms are not so full of appeals to sensationalism but they are coming down to earth and talk business.

Read the following statement of one of the aspirants for the nomination for Governor in a Pacific Coast state.

"The future commercial and financial greatness of this state is guaranteed, if we can but show to the world, that along with the lavish supply of wealth in our national resources, we are a sane people, believing in good laws and their strict enforcement, that our stability of character has risen above the plane of the dreamer, the pettifogger and the demagogue, and that we have put behind us the proclivity for trying every crazy theory of government under the sun. When we have accomplished these things, we will have done much toward the reduction of taxes, and the improvement of our credit and standing abroad. Capital will seek investment, labor will find employment at good pay, and business will prosper."

"The foolish and impractical embar-goes that have been placed upon our great water powers should be removed.

A bunch of hair-brained theorists, who inherited their wealth and never earned a dollar or provided a payroll, have induced the government to impose so many reservations and drawbacks that capital cannot be secured for their development, and our people are deprived of the cheap light, heat and power now wasting itself in its mad rush to the sea."

Victory For Better Business

The Oregon primary election indicates a strong tendency to promote tax reduction and reduce legislation.

Nearly all candidates pledged to economy and opposition to freak legislation have been successful for the General Assembly.

"Create no new offices," "reduce taxes," "abolish useless boards and commissions," "repeal laws and enact few new ones," were ticket slogans.

Members of the last legislature who made records for tax reductions and abolishing jobs were popular candidates.

In Multnomah County there is a marked improvement in the class of candidates named, favoring business administration in state and county affairs.

Much of our future success in this country depends upon our ability to keep our young men on the farms and away from the cities. Statistics show that the farms are gradually becoming depopulated and the cities are being overcrowded, with from two to five men for every job. If our young men would stick to the farms, and improve and develop the uncultivated acres, it would be only a question of time when the wealth of this country would be doubled and trebled. Bright lights and white ways appeal to the young eye, but they do not feed empty stomachs.
The farm is a good place to be and a far better place to stay.

It's disheartening, we'll admit, but only one of the gang can be elected president this trip.

It begins to look as though the crowned heads of Europe had grabbed a great big bear by the tail and don't know how to let go.

No matter who they marry, some men always remember the first girl they ever loved. Others, d'gosh, forget which one it was.

Got an affinity? Tell your wife all about it and then she won't believe it.

When a man's a real man you never hear him reminding you of the fact.

We insist, though, that there are some women who can keep a secret.
Dead ones never talk.

In case of war we might marshal our army of "favorite sons" for the first line. But, then, we fear they would prefer to be in the last line, or in no line at all.

Some men are about as useful as a canary bird. On second thought however, we'd prefer the canary.

Make up your mind, young man, that you will hold your job only until a better man comes along to take it.
When you get this fact firmly planted in your noodle you will be worth something to your employer.

If it be true that man is descended from the apes we fear the apes would be ashamed to admit the relationship to some of us.

We can imagine no more distressing sight than to see a beautiful complexion disappearing with the perspiration on a hot summer day.

When a fellow ahems and fidgets and squirms he is generally getting ready to say nothing or to tell a whopper.

Chicago is to pull off a preparedness parade with two hundred thousand marchers in line. We're with 'em in spirit, but durned if we want to get in that jam.

We haven't a single cuss word left this week suitable to apply to Villa.

mination to kick the American army presidential ring we will soon have no one left but a orite so is.

On Modern Man.

"The late Emerson Taylor, our consul at Port of Spain," said a Washington official, "balled from Dry Run, and he had a fund of happy Dry Run humor."

"Taylor once compared a disgruntled brother consul to a Dry Run housewife."

"This woman," he said, "often took a queer, disgruntled view of things. Thus she said one day:

"I don't think the prodigal son was so bad, after all!"

"He wa'n't no good to his family," said her husband.

"That's a fact," said the Dry Run woman. "But when he got home, all the same, he knowed enough to keep his mouth shut. If he'd been like the twentieth century man the first thing he'd done would 'a' been to find fault with the way the fatted calf was cooked."—Pittsburgh Press.

The Exclusive X Club.

One of the most exclusive of clubs was the X, whose last surviving member was Lord Avebury. It was founded by a little coterie of literary scientists, including Sir Joseph Hooker and Herbert Spencer, and, though intended to comprise men members, never got beyond nine, because no tenth was found who came up to the two requirements of mental caliber and intimacy with the other nine. Many names for the club were suggested and rejected before a member's wife proposed terming it after the unknown quantity X.—
