CHERRYVILLE

The good old summer time. June brides, June berries and June roses are now on the program. If old Noah had lived in Oregon he would have built more than one ark. The dance at the Dr. Botkin ran last Saturday night drew a large crowd, there being over 80 present. The music was furnished by Roberts, Bodley and Mrs. St. Clair, the Dover Orchestra, and was all right. It was worth anybody's attention to see Miss Hart and John McCormick dance the hesitation waltz. They come very near being in the professional class. A writer in the Oregonian says artichokes make the very best chicken feed. That horses will leave grain to eat them and that hogs will fatten quickly on them, and that they will yield over 1000 bushels to the acre. No show for one to be poor in Oregon. Plant an acre or so of artichokes and live, at ease and in luxury. The tops, the writer says, make excellent fodder. Miss Goldie Williams, of Wisdom, Montana, is visiting with her sister, Mrs. August Beidenstein, and may remain all summer. Other parts of the country have disagreeable weather as well as Oregon. So cold at Los Angeles that everybody complains, while at Anderson, Indiana it was so hot that children in a parade were sun struck. A big show of fruit for the running wild blackberry. This is a delicious fruit and anyone can make money gathering and canning them as they command a ready sale. Strawberries also promise a big crop. This is the open season for Bull Moose and although some think the species is extinct, a fine specimen is liable to show up at Chicago next week. Look out for Teddy.

The family of Mrs. S. C. Runyan moved to Sandy last week where Mr. Runyan is employed at Dixon's mill.

The people here who are on R. R. land have mostly been on the land long enough to hold their claims as the bill recently passed by congress requires them to show a continuous residence since December 1st, 1913. This applies to Sam Cox, the Clarks, Webbers, Johnsons and of course Mr. William Runyan who has been on the longest of anybody here.

INCUBATOR HINTS.

See that the incubator is running steadily at the desired temperature before filling with eggs. Do not add fresh eggs to a tray containing eggs which are undergoing incubation. Turn the eggs twice daily after the second until the nineteenth day. Cool the eggs once daily, according to the weather, from the seventh to the nineteenth day. Turn the eggs before caring for the lamps. Attend to the machine regularly at regular hours. Keep the lamp and wick clean. Test the eggs on the seventh and fourteenth days. Do not open the machine after the eighteenth day until the chickens are hatched.—American Agriculturist.

Heavy Hearts.

Mr. Bacon—There, what did I tell you? This paper says the average man's heart weighs from ten to twelve ounces; the average woman's from eight to ten. Mrs. Bacon—Of course men's hearts weigh more. They are a good deal harder.—Yonkers Statesman.

Thorough Understanding.

"I presume you understand an auto thoroughly?" "Thoroughly—that is, I know when it won't run there is something the matter with it."—Detroit Free Press.

Heron's Foot For Bait.

So great is the heron's repute as a fisher that it has long been thought that its feet, owing to some peculiar scent or oil which they were supposed to possess, attracted the fish, more especially eels, to within easy reach of its beak. In some places the rustic angler still believes that if a heron's foot is placed with his worms the latter are more eagerly taken by fish.—London Outlook.

BUILD UP TIRED LAND.

Nature Should Be Helped to Restore Hard Worked Fields.

[Dr. H. B. Brown, Mississippi station.]

Help nature build up the fields that have worked too hard and have been turned out to rest. If grasses, cornstalks, leaves and other organic materials are left on the land they will decay and add humus to the soil. Where these materials are burned off, however, all the organic substances are given off in the form of gases and only the mineral matter is left in the ash.

The improvement to the land if all grasses and other growth were allowed to rot instead of being burned would be worth millions of dollars to any state. The destruction of useful plants is another harmful result of burning off the fields. Fire will totally destroy the seed of all the true clovers, which are invaluable as soil builders. Many of the most valuable grasses can be killed by burning. Even Bermuda will die if burned repeatedly. Perhaps the greatest harm is done in the woods by the killing out of seeds as they drop from the trees and by killing the young trees, thus preventing the reproduction of forests.

Besides the damage done by fires in the removal of plant food and killing out of vegetation they greatly hasten erosion. On the other hand, the cornstalks and grasses in the fields and the sage grasses in worn out soils prevent the rains washing out gullies and help to hold the water as it soaks into the ground.

PREPARING THE DASHEEN.

A Staple Article of Food In the South Is Invading the North.

The dasheen, which has been successfully raised in some of our southern states and Arizona, has become quite popular as a rival to the potato. It outdoes the potato in that it can be grown as a summer crop in a region where the potato must be grown almost entirely as a spring crop. It ripens its tubers in October and furnishes them for the table at a season when northern grown potatoes have to be shipped in.

This vegetable is a staple article of food for millions of people in tropical and subtropical countries. In general it is used in the different ways in which the white potato and the sweet potato are used. The flesh of the large spherical corns and of the larger tubers (which are usually much smaller than the corns) is frequently somewhat gray or violet when cooked, but this does not affect the flavor. Baked dasheens, stuffed dasheens, scalloped dasheens, boiled dasheens, fried dasheens, mashed dasheens, creamed dasheens, dasheen salad, dasheens as filling for fowls and other meats, dasheen soup, candied dasheens, dasheen pie, dasheen pudding, dasheen shoots, dasheen greens—prepare and cook as you would potatoes. This is a novelty that amateur gardeners will enjoy trying.

Success in the Vegetable Garden.

Have good soil properly prepared. Purchase seeds from a reliable seed house. Always sow seeds according to directions. Give proper cultivation from the time the seedlings appear until the crop is harvested. A heavy clay soil will not produce good vegetables. Clay soil should be lightened by applying siftings from coal ashes or sand and lime should be used freely, with plenty of stable manure.

Cultivation must begin as soon as the seedlings appear, and sometimes before, keeping the weeds from getting a start. Never allow the ground to become hard or "baked" on the surface. When the seedlings are tall enough to thin give the plants ample room.—W. M. L., Batesville, Ind.
