"For Sandy Always."

Always Another Side

In the formation of our views on national, state and municipal affairs many of us are unconsciously led into the error of believing that there is but one side to the question before us—our side.

When we become imbued with this obsession we likewise become intolerant of opposition and refuse to recognize the possibility of any views except our own.

We might cite a few instances.

We favor a certain man for president in the forthcoming national election. To our mind he is the only man possessing the necessary qualifications for this exalted position. All others are mediocre and not worth consideration. And yet as a matter of fact there is not a man in the race for the presidency today but what has his good and valuable qualities as well as his weak ones, for the brains of this nation are not centered in any one man.

We have our personal choice and we sincerely believe that the man of our choice is the best fitted for the office, but we should readily concede to our neighbor his inalienable right to differ from us in this belief.

We may favor a certain system in municipal government and our neighbor may entertain views radically divergent from our own. But this does not necessarily imply that we are exactly right in our conception and that our neighbor is entirely wrong, for our neighbor, though differing from us in our views, yet possesses intelligence and is quite capable of applying it in relation to any subject before the people.

In fact, there are two sides to every question. The preponderance of argument may be in favor of one side, yet the advocates of the other side but speak in the light of their training and of their sincere conception of what is for the public weal.

They are honest in their convictions, as we are honest in ours, and wisdom bespeaks the utmost tolerance on the part of all factions and peoples for those who oppose them in their policies and beliefs.

It is by the careful exercise of this wisdom that a nation becomes great and strong and dominating in the world of affairs, while to pursue a reverse policy is to invite buckering, exasperation and ultimate disintegration.

In our conduct of affairs let us think as we choose, but bow cheerfully to the will of the majority and work in harmony for the common good of all the people.

Young Man Who Are You?

Are you known by your own name, or are you known merely as your father's son?

Are you known by your own good qualities and by your own acts, or are you remembered simply because you bear the name of better people who conceived you and brought you into this world?

The young man who can look his elders straight in the eye and say "I am James Martin" already has opportunity at his feet, but the fellow who can say nothing better than that "he is Robert Martin's son" will still be groping in the darkness of the future after opportunity has vanished in the distance.

Be something, do something, create a personality of your own, and the world will know you and respect you for what you are and not for what your parents were before you.

But continue content as "another man's son," and you will be accorded the respect and privileges only of "another man's son," and when death overtakes you, your home paper will speak charitably of you merely as "another man's son."

Occasionally we run across a fellow whose mind feeds only on itself. And, forsooth, it has blamed little on which to feed.

It is right, of course, that you vote in accordance with your convictions without interference or dictation from any person whatsoever. And, on second thought, it is equally right that the other fellow should do the same.

Japan is preparing to bite off another slice of China. But, then, China has 400,000,000 people who can not fight because they have nothing with which to fight. How would you like to be the Chink?

There is a new calendar out that covers twenty centuries, from 100 to 2100. And, incidentally, we hope the war will be over by the time a new one is in demand.

'Tis said that an elephant's trunk contains forty thousand muscles, which, no doubt, makes it almost as supple as the tongue of a political spellbinder.

There are so many great men in the country that we do not feel in the least payed when we are not singled out as the greatest of the great.

Compressed air is used for cleaning complicated machinery. Politically, however, it is only of value when it explodes.

In France medical prescriptions are written in the language of the country, but in the United States they are written in a tongue that has been dead these hundreds of years and which no one understands but the doctors and the druggists. Why?

The wise man often knows not of his own wisdom, nor the fool of his foolishness. But 'tis nature, and will ever be so.

The lad who honors his parents may some day have children who will honor him.

A brother editor remarks that he would rather have a good stomach than a million bucks. We, modestly, would prefer to hog both.

If gasoline keeps on going up the pesky stuff will soon be so high it will never be able to find the earth when it drops.

Parrots of Mexico.
What the wild pigeon once was in point of numbers to the United States the parrot, of varying shades of color and all sizes, is to old Mexico. Flights of these birds frequently darken the midday sun in the hot country, and they become so tame around the camps of engineers that the birds are given individual names and soon become regular pets. Whenever the parrots desert the forest and alight on the ground in the open spaces of the jungle the natives recognize their actions as sure warning of an impending earthquake.
