CHERRYVILLE

The nice warm rain was very welcome.

A great flight of autos Saturday and Sunday, over three hundred going up in the two days.

Jack Greenwood has rented the Fabian ranch between Brightwood and Rowe and will run a summer hotel this season. His wife is an excellent cook formerly working at Arrah Wannah.

The Boy Scouts have arrived, nearly forty in number and consists of troop 20 and parts of troops 16 and 19 of Portland. They have a fine headquarters tent a cook tent and mess tent as well as thirty-five bunk tents and everything is conducted with military precision. The camp is under the care of Reverend Randall, assistant pastor of the First Presbyterian church. The bugle sounds taps at night, reveille in the morning and when the bugle sounds the charge or fall-in the scouts make double speed for mess tent. Now let the Japs tremble in their kimonos and the Mexicans shiver in their Pajamas. The Boy Scouts much to the joy of the war manufacturers will defend the flag.

A lone fisherman sailed on the head waters of Alder Creek, he found a pool of water literally lined with trout, some of them nearly two feet long. The big ones however would not bite as they were living off from the little ones. These big ones were mighty fat and sleek and living at their ease while some large slim trout were continually stirring up the little ones and could easily get them.

This is like our modern civilization, big fat pompous fellows live in great style and splendor by eating up the poor and ignorant.

The Murry boys have a pet pine squirrel which they caught when small and has now become quite tame and playful. He sleeps with Louis but wakes him up early on account of wanting to play and have an early breakfast.

Mrs. Banta who is a great grand mother, is living on a railroad claim north of here and has nearly an acre of ground cleared and in cultivation. The railroad claimed that this land was unfit for cultivation, but if any one will visit this splendid garden they will not believe them as the strawberries, potatoes, cabbage, onions, corn and carrots are in great shape.

GEORGE

The children's day program at the church Sunday was enjoyed by every one. Rev. Ane, pastor of Spring Water was present and gave an interesting talk to the little folks. He also rendered several pleasing selections on the violin.

Next Saturday night the Social and Commercial club will hold their regular meeting.

Several families from here attended the Concert and Strawberry Social given by the Garfield Band last Saturday night at the Grange hall, and all report having had a splendid time.

Mrs. Leo Rath visited home folks on Sandy Ridge, Thursday.

Miss Pauline Ochs is home for the summer.

Miss Flora Johnson who spent the winter in Portland is home again, and will keep house for her father this summer.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Johnson and baby son, were Sunday visitors at Mrs. Johnson's parents in Estacada.

Carl Rath, Leo Rath, A. H. Miller and Mr. Terwillinger were over after lumber Friday at the mill on Sandy Ridge.

Henry Ridderbusch, of Sandy, is hauling lumber for Weiderhold's new barn.

Miss Anita Paulsen, of Stanton, Oregon, is visiting at the home of her aunt Mrs. Julius Paulsen.

THIRST TAMES WILD BEASTS.

Savage Brutes Respect Each Other's Right to Drinking Water.

Just as one dog will respect another dog's bone so even the fiercest forest beasts have their unwritten laws and their little conventions.

One common idea which has found its way into scores of books of adventure is that the lion and tiger take advantage of the insistent call of thirst to get a supper—that is to say, they go down to the water pool, the only one for miles around, then take a good drink themselves and then lie in wait for some gazelle or giraffe or ibex coming there for a like purpose in order to spring upon the poor creature while in the act of drinking and make a meal of it.

Yet this is a libelous estimate of wild beast character. The fact is that there is a sort of truce of the water hole in jungle and forest. As far as killing is concerned the drinking place is out of bounds. There is an invisible notice board on its banks which says, "Live and Let Live," and it is implicitly obeyed.

There is an order of precedence. The rhinoceros gets first drink. He is the Dreadnought of the forest jungle. Then comes that old troncled the elephant.

When he has lowered the tide mark and made the water more like coffee than anything else the big pussy cats stroll down to quench their ardent tongues—the lions, the leopards in Africa, the tigers in India, the Jaguars and pumas in South America.

Meanwhile the shy animals—the giraffes, deer, springboks and even the buffaloes, although they are a match for a lion—stand in the background and wait till the carnivora have done. But the latter never prevent their approach to the water or waylay them on their retirement. And that is better manners—aye, and better morals—than many men show.—Pearson's.

INDIA'S FAMOUS ROAD.

It Was the World's Greatest Highway Before Rome Was Born.

Search where you will, you will find no highway in the whole world so romantic as the Grand Trunk road of India.

A stately avenue of three roads in one—the center of hard metal, the roads on each side ankle deep in silvery dust—fringed by double rows of trees. It runs for 1,400 miles through the vast northern plain which skirts the Himalayas, from Calcutta to far Peshawur, which keeps sentinel at the gate of Afghanistan.

From horizon to horizon it stretches like a broad white ribbon, as seemingly straight as if traced by a gigantic ruler. And dotted along its entire length are hundreds of serais (wayside rest houses), each with its arched and turreted gateway. Its spacious enclosure, in which humans share shelter with oxen, camels and goats, and its central well of sparkling water.

For 3,000 years the Himalayas have looked down on this road and seen it as they see it today. It was the world's greatest highway before Rome was cradled, when the aboriginal Indians drove their cattle over the very spot where the motorcar dashes today.

Alexander the Great led his Greeks along it to the conquest of northern India, and Buddha himself took his daily walks along it centuries before Christ was cradled.

It has seen a hundred generations come and go, a score of dynasties rise and fall. And yet today it is to the eye exactly the same as in the long gone years when Nineveh was a proud city.—New York Journal.

FARM COST ACCOUNTS.

The principles used to obtain costs on the farm are really no different than those used in the factory. The principal activity of both farm and factory is to produce.

The elements entering into the cost of the finished product, be it on the farm or in the factory, are the same—namely, labor, material and expense.

The labor on the farm is classified as man labor, horse labor and machine labor.

The material consists of such items as seeds, fertilizers, etc. The expense items are taxes, insurance, depreciation on buildings, small sundry expenses, etc.

The total of the expense items are proportionately charged to the production departments of the farm.—Hoard's Dairyman.
