SALUTES BY GUNFIRE.

Origin of the Custom and of the 101 Blasts For Monarchs.

There is a good deal more in this most delicate and important matter of salutes by gunfire than is always understood. It has a history of its own, which goes back nearly as far as the use of gunpowder in war, and whether it was adopted as a means of reassuring one's visiting acquaintances that one's guns were empty of cannon balls and one's soul of guile or whether it was begun merely as an organized noise in honor of a guest does not greatly matter.

Toward the end of the fifteenth century a salute of guns was a recognized compliment, though the number to be fired seems to have varied. An accident is said to have settled when to stop firing in the royal salute. The Emperor Maximilian I., returning to the city of Augsburg after an expedition, was received with what should have been a salute of a hundred guns. The officer in charge of the artillery lost count in his nervousness and in order to make sure that the full number was rendered discharged an extra piece.

The city of Nuremberg, which was the next to have the honor of entertaining the emperor, thought that the new number was official and followed the example of Augsburg. Thus the highest honor that was payable by gunfire became 101 rounds.

The greatest salute ever fired was that of 1,001 guns, which in 1840 greeted the arrival in France of the ship bearing Napoleon's body from St. Helena, although at the Imperial durbar in 1911 the imposing salute of 101 "guns," each fired by salvos of six pieces, was no bad second. Of others there was a salute fired some few years ago at the blessing of the waters of the Neva by the present czar that might well have marked an epoch. There was also the salute without which the kaiser on his famous visit to Palestine refused to land at Beirut.—Pereval Landon in London Telegraph

Contemporary Opinion of Beethoven.

When the First Trios and the First Symphony appeared the conservative critics declared that they were "the confused explosions of a talented young man's overweening conceit."

The Second Symphony was called a monster, a dragon wounded to death and unable to die, thrashing around with its tail in impotent rage! Later Von Weber declared of the sublime Seventh Symphony that "the extravagances of this genius have reached their ne plus ultra, and Beethoven is quite ripe for the madhouse!"—Dole in "Famous Composers."

Not Interesting.

"That woman seemed to bore you."
"Yes; I'm baldheaded, as you see. All she could talk about was the trouble she has in washing her hair."—Kansas City Journal.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE STATE OF OREGON FOR THE COUNTY OF CLACKAMAS

Thurstan Pendleton, deceased; and also all other persons or parties unknown claiming any right, title, estate, lien or interest in the real property described in the complaint herein. Defendants;

SUMMONS

To—Pendleton, wife of Michael Pendleton; Rice Pendleton, or his unknown heirs; the unknown heirs of John Pendleton deceased; Edward Whitney, Rosa Whitney, Emma Whitney, Roy Mundue and the unknown heirs of Elizabeth Whitney, deceased; the unknown heirs of Francis Marion Pendleton, deceased; the unknown heirs of Samuel R. Thurstan Pendleton, deceased; and also all other persons or parties unknown claiming any right, title, estate, lien or interest in the real property described in the complaint herein.

IN THE NAME OF THE STATE OF OREGON: You are hereby required to appear and answer the complaint filed against you in the above entitled suit on or before the 3rd day of July, A. D. 1916, and if you fail to answer or appear, for want thereof the plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint, to-wit:

That the plaintiff is the owner in fee simple of the following described real property, situated in Clackamas County Oregon, to-wit:

The south half of the Champing Pendleton and wife Donation Land Claim, Number 58, lying on the east side of the Molalla River, save and except:

4.19 acres, more or less, described book 131, at page 598. Deed Records of Clackamas County, Oregon, owned by Conrad and Carrie Sannes;

Also 5-50 acres, described Book 134, page 551 Deed Records of Clackamas County, Oregon, owned by John R. Newton.

Also the land described in Book 114, at page 565. Deed Records of Clackamas County, Oregon, owned by Ole W. Berg,

Also the land described in Book 129, at page 308, Deed Records of Clackamas County, Oregon, that is now owned by John R. Newton;

And that defendants and each of them and every person or parties claiming or to claim by, through or under said defendants or any of them have no right, title, estate, lien or interest in or to said real property or any part thereof, and that they and each of them be forever barred and estopped from asserting or claiming any right, title, estate, lien, or interest in said real property or any part thereof, and that this plaintiff's title in and to said real property and the whole thereof be forever quieted and for such other relief as to the court may seem just and equitable in the premises, save and except that said decree shall not in any way effect what ever rights John Mainwood may have by virtue of a mortgage recorded Book 100, page 325, and Fena Nelson-Tetslaff may have by virtue of a mortgage recorded Book 105, page 1110, all of mortgage records of Clackamas County, Oregon, also that said defendants be required to set up in their answer to the complaint the actual nature of their several and conflicting claims in and to the said real property. This summons is published by virtue of an order made by J. U. Campbell, Judge of the above entitled Court on the 9th day of May A. D., 1916, directing the same to be published in THE SANDY NEWS, a newspaper of general circulation published at Sandy in Clackamas County, Oregon, Drying an Umbrella.

An umbrella should never be opened in order to dry it, as the ribs get sprung, and it will never roll up neatly and tightly after once dried in this manner. Doing this will also spoil the cover by straining the weave unnaturally. The correct way to dry an umbrella is to stand it on the handle that the water may run off at the points instead of gathering at the ferrule and thus rotting the material.
