When Baronets Were Sold.

It was in the reign of good King James that baronets first came into existence. Today you could hardly tell a baronet from a banker. But in the year 1611, when James I. needed ready money and created 200 "little barons" to supply him with cash, they swagged about in their baldric and sashes and behaved in the courtliest of fashion. Each baronet in order to justify his title had to maintain a small army of thirty soldiers for three years. In this way the crafty king not only increased his revenue, but actually lightened his expenses.—London Telegraph.

He Saved Time.

An English weaver who had spent two or three years in America was paying a visit to the old mill to see some of his former workmates.

One of them said to him: "I hear it's all hustle and bustle in America. In fact, you haven't time to eat."

"Hustle and bustle," said the visitor. "Why, when I left here I spelt my name 'Mirril,' but now I spelt it 'Merrell'."

"How's that?" asked his friend.

"Because," replied the Americanized one, "I haven't time to dot the 'i's'."—Exchange.

TO KILL GRASSHOPPERS.

Just After Wheat Harvest Is the Time to Destroy These Pests.

According to Mr. George A. Dean, entomologist of the Kansas State Agricultural college, the time to get the grasshoppers is just after wheat harvest, when they are migrating from the wheat stubble to the growing crops, or just after the second cutting of alfalfa. During the last three years the poisoned bran mash, flavored with fruit juice, has been found so effective in this state and in other states and countries that the experiment station does not hesitate to recommend it as the most effective and practical method of control.

The bran mash is made of bran, twenty pounds; paris green, white arsenic or london purple, one pound; sirup, two quarts; oranges or lemons, three; water, three and one-half gallons. Paris green is preferred to the other poisons, but the price of it this year is very high, and hence in some cases it may be well to substitute white arsenic or london purple. In preparing the bran mash mix the bran and the poison dry in a washtub.

Squeeze the juice of the oranges or lemons into the water and chop the remaining pulp and the peel to fine bits and add them to the water. Dissolve the sirup in the water and wet the bran and poison with the mixture, stirring it at the same time in order to dampen the mash thoroughly. The damp mash or bait should be sown broadcast in the infested areas early in the morning, when the grasshoppers first begin to move about. The amount of bait or mash made by using the quantities of ingredients given should be sufficient to cover four to five acres.

On alfalfa fields the bait should be applied after the crop has been removed and before the new crop has started. If grasshoppers are moving into corn, Kafir, new wheat or garden, a strip of the poisoned bran mash should be scattered early in the morning along the edge of the field. A second or even a third application of the bait will be necessary in some cases at intervals of three or four days.

Nontangling Pasture Stake.

An old carriage wheel and axle were used to good advantage in the making of the pasture stake shown in the sketch. When the animal tethered to the wheel walks around the stake it is practically impossible for the rope to become tangled, as the wheel revolves on the axle.—Popular Mechanics.

Twig Blight.

To help in controlling twig blight in fruit trees get rid of all old, useless pear, apple or wild fruit trees, prune out badly blighted twigs and cut away blighted spots on trunks or large limbs.
