Drawing The Long Bow.

Parents of young men who are serving in the National Guard regiments on the border are much concerned over some lurid tales of supposed hardships which have been told and written by certain sensational newspaper correspondents and disgruntled soldiers.

That the relatives and friends of those at the front should be guilty of sending out such ridiculous reports to worry and alarm the people "back home" is inconceivable. Yet it is a fact.

One story that is being spread is to the effect that the men are half starved.
Let us dissect this story.

The government issues a stated amount of rations to each man each day. Here is one days allowance per man:

14 pounds of fresh meat.

1 pound and 2 ounces of fresh bread, or its equivalent in flour. One-eighth of an ounce of baking powder.

Two and four-tenths ounces of navy beans, or rice or hominy, tomatoes, or other fresh vegetables.

One and twenty-eight hundredths ounce of prunes, or dried apples, or peaches, or jam.

One and twelve-hundredths ounces of coffee, or tea.

Three and two-tenths ounces of sugar.
One-half ounce of evaporated milk.

Sixteen-hundredths of a gill of vinegar, or pickles, sixty-four hundredths of an ounce of salt.

Four-hundredths of an ounce of pepper.

Sixty-four hundredths of an ounce of lard.

Five-tenths of an ounce of butter.

In addition they get syrup, flavoring extracts and spices, ice for preserving perishable goods, coal and wood for cooking purposes.

A splendid field range is furnished each company for cooking, and every facility is provided for their needs and welfare.

The soldiers of the regular army are receiving exactly the same allowance as the soldiers of the National Guard, yet never a murmur is heard from the regulars.

It is but just, however, to the great mass of National Guard troops to state that the kicking generally comes from a class of men who are never satisfied, no matter how much they receive.

If there are any parents and friends of soldiers in this vicinity they should not be alarmed. The government supplies all the men require in food, the surgeons are doing their utmost in sanitary measures, and the authorities are straining every nerve to preserve the health and morale of the troops.

Sensational newspaper reports and letters coming in from the border should be read with unlimited reserve, and salt should be sprinkled upon every line.

The man with a mind of his own invariably judges correctly the minds of others. He succeeds in his undertakings and time records him as a resourceful man. Think for yourself.

England, too, is making naughty eyes at Uncle Sam. But, then, she did it once before—and was sorry.

An acquaintance asks the interesting question, "Where are our American patriots?" Hunting for gold of course.

While talking preparedness, why not make it one of decency, respectability and a better personal life?

Herbert Kaufman says that those who know nothing always want to talk about it. Herb ought to know, as he does a lot of it himself.

You never have to speak twice to start a knocker to going.

The will to do invariably sees that it is done.

The big talker often says little things.

Speaking a good word is like kissing a pretty girl. You want to do it again.

We have a hundred million people in this country, and each one is just a little smarter than the other.

Russia wants closer trade relations with the United States. That's easy.
All we want is the cash for our goods.

A Chicago commission is to make a study of the city's defectives. They will be lenient, however, with the city council.

It may be that beauty is only skin deep, but the well turned ankle catches the public eye.

Every man is supposed to be the architect of his own fortune, but many of them forget to build.

Nothing is harder to keep than a girl who fancies the other fellow.

This is good but it isn't ours: "International law is an old fiddle upon which any tune can be played.

Villa, in the number of his lives, has shoved the cat off the map.

A daily paper says: "It is not safe to rely solely upon dreadnaughts, or cruisers, or submarines. A modern navy must be well balanced. Naval experts know what is needed and the senate bill follows their recommendations as nearly as is politically possible." The country's needs playing second fiddle to peanut politics. It has always been so, and, we presume, always will be—or at least until we tire of sending peanut politicians to represent us in the halls of statesmen.

A Step Further.
Grandma was indulging in a few reminiscences.
"And we used to make hasty pudding," said she.
"We have instantaneous pudding nowadays, grandma. Comes in a can."— Philadelphia Bulletin.

Suspicious.
"I don't like the way she spoke of the baby."
"Why, she said it looked like you."
"Yes, and she said it in such a nasty way."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Curious Old Clock.
In the tower of the town house of Heidelberg was an old clock so constructed that when the hours struck the figure of an old man pulled off his hat, a cock crowed and clapped its wings and soldiers fought with one another. But this curious piece of workmanship, with the castle and town, was burned by the French in 1633.

Where a King's Clothes Were Kept.
St. Andrew's-by-the-Wardrobe is a conspicuous waymark in Queen Victoria street and derives a grotesque distinguishing title from former proximity to the king's great wardrobe.
This was originally the town mansion of Sir John Beauchamp and purchased from his executors by Edward III. for the keepers of the king's apparel.
"There were kept," says Fuller, "the ancient clothes of our English kings which they wore on great festivals." Shakespeare in his will left to his favorite daughter, Susannah, the Warwickshire doctor's wife, a house near the Wardrobe, "wherein one John Robinson dwelleth." The present Church of St. Andrew's-by-the-Wardrobe was rebuilt by Wren after the great fire and became the city center of the evangelical revival under William Romaine.—Westminster Gazette.
