Do It Before Winter.

Paint your house, repair the leaks in the roof, put the eaves troughs in proper condition, and other necessary repairs. It is your castle, the place where your happiest moments are spent, and a winter of pleasure will be assured if you attend to these things now. Your wife wants you to do it, whether she tells you so or not.

Clean out your well and see that it is in sanitary condition. The health of your family should be your first consideration. And then, too, it saves doctors' bills.

Perhaps you need a walk or two around the house, or leading to the front gate, or to the barn, or elsewhere.
Build it. Women should not be compelled to spend five or ten minutes scraping mud off of their feet every time they step out of doors, for it is an uncomfortable job in cold winter months.

Inspect your fences and make necessary repairs. It is more pleasant to do it now than to freeze your fingers in the dead of winter. You know it from experience.

Don't forget your stock. If there are any holes in the sides of your barn, repair them, too. A shivering animal does not think much of its owner, and neither do most people.

Get your neighbors together and look over the public school. The young people do not understand so well the necessity for proper ventilation and other sanitary measures. But they like comfort and plenty of fresh air.
You did yourself, not so long ago.

Get busy on the roads. They need it, and you need the results of better ones.
Just how would you like to be a horse, and strain every muscle in an endeavor to pull a load through a lot of sticky mud the long and wearisome road to town and back? Wouldn't like it, would you? Neither does the horse.

Go after the town officials and have that hole in the walk repaired, instead of walking around it every time you pass along the street. If they can't see it of their own accord it is time they had it pointed out to them. Do it yourself.

Make up your mind to go to church occasionally this winter. Make up your mind now and live up to the make. It won't hurt the church and it will do you a world of good.

Do a lot of other things now that when winter comes you will wish you had done in the summer months.

Don't leave anything until tomorrow, for tomorrow you may be dead and then you will not get the credit of doing things that others leave undone.
If you can't stay on this earth forever, at least leave a record for something behind you.

Politics, Strikes, Bomb Throw- ing And War.

National politics, local politics, war, strikes and bomb throwing have held the center of the stage the past few months.

Is it any wonder the country is in a state of unrest?

Agitators have the privilege of going through our country and saying what they please, where they please and when they please.

Satisfied workmen are kept in a constant state of unrest and no manufacturer knows what he can count on from one month to the next.

Whether the general feeling of war the world over has brought on this spirit of lawlessness in the United States no man can tell, but the fact remains that unless conditions are changed, capital is going to be harder and harder to get to invest in all lines of industry, for the man with money will be afraid to take the chances he now assumes when he starts a payroll.

If some live merchant will spend an hour or two some evening with his store-blinds drawn and install a handsome and attractive window display, something unique and out of the ordinary, and then advertise it in this paper, we venture the prediction that at least half of the people in this community will be around to see it. And many of them will buy just because they happen to be there. Advertising will get the people to a store that is worth going to, but the merchant and his goods must do the selling. Step up, gentlemen. What merchant in this town wants the people to beat a path to his store?

The sting of the honey bee is a joy to the sting of price boosting that is going on all over this country. The price of postage stamps and air, however, remain at normal

Many a swell dresser has a dirty back yard.

Hang onto life. You'll never get another grab.

Don't sow too many wild oats while young. You may run short of seed when you get old

We know a fellow in this town who is so irresistibly funny he doesn't even know it. But it isn't you.

Thanks, we never smoke political cigars. Make it an ad instead.

The time of all others when we love you to distraction is when you dig down and whack up.

As an evidence of our adherence to reciprocity, if you'll present us with an automobile we'll furnish the gasoline to run it.

If the price of print paper keeps on climbing we'll soon have to be printing this sheet on ten dollar bills.

If you want to go to heaven, brother, just hitch up a mule and a politician and start in the opposite direction.

Funny isn't it? A fellow got peeved and stopped his paper the other day and then rushed right over and borrowed his neighbor's to see what we had to say about him.

Love Affairs of Handel.

Women greatly admired Handel, who was very handsome, but the serenity of the composer seems only to have been ruffled twice by love on his part.
His first attachment was to a London girl, a member of the aristocracy. Her parents believed him beneath her in social position, but were good enough to say that if he abstained from writing any more music the question of marriage might be entertained. It was easier to abstain from their daughter than from his art, and he did so. Years after almost the same thing occurred Handel and another beautiful pupil of his fell in love with each other, and proud parents gave him the choice between giving up his profession or their daughter. Music, "heavenly maid," was chosen.—"The Love Affairs of Some Famous Men."

A Prophecy That Failed.

The old Emperor William used to tell a story against himself which well serves to illustrate "that most gratuitous form of error, prophecy." When the emperor was only king of Prussia he saw one day among his troops an untidy looking lieutenant. "Who is that man?" he asked. "An officer," he was told, "who has just left the Danish service and joined the Prussian." "That man will never get on in the army," said the monarch, and he used to add in telling the story. "The man was Moltke, and my judgment of him gives you the measure of my insight."

In Hot Water.

Two citizens were toddling up the street one day recently, earnestly engaged in exchanging their experiences with dyspepsia.

"And did you ever try the hot water cure?" asked the thin one.
"Did I?" repeated the melancholy one, who had also something of the saving grace of humor in his makeup, as many melancholy men have. "I should say I did. Why, man, I've been married fifteen years."

The Elephant.

East Indians believe that the elephant lives 300 years. Instances are on record of these huge animals having been in captivity for 130 years. their ages being unknown when they were taken from the jungle in a wild state.

Bluffs Sometimes Win.

The Chinese tell a story about a tiger that was led by a monkey to a field where a fat mule was grazing.
The tiger, who had never seen a mule before, licked his chops. But the mule looked up languidly at the monkey and said:

"Friend monkey, heretofore you have always brought me two tigers. How is it you bring me only one today?" The bluff was so excellent that the tiger made off as fast as he could go.
