A Master of Proportions.
An eager young teacher was reviewing the Sunday school lesson in a mission church in Brooklyn. The subject was Moses and the bush that burned without being consumed. The boys of ten or twelve had been greatly interested in the story and were now eager to expose their knowledge. Answers followed her questions with the rapidity of a machine gun.
"Now, Harry, it's your turn."
"Yessum," was the confident answer. "Tell me what there was about this burning bush that was different from any bushes that have burned since."
The boy knew—you could tell from the snapping of his eyes—but he paused to formulate his words. "Why, ma'am, you see, this here bush it burned up, but it didn't burn down!" The teacher could not have explained it better herself.—Youth's Companion.

BITS OF POULTRY WISDOM

Tough grass is of no value as a green food. Better sow some quick growing crop.

Feed hoppers greatly reduce the work. If they are kept filled the chicks will never go hungry.

If your chicks are not doing well something is wrong. Look out for lice and for worms in the intestines.

Two-year-old hens had better be sent to the market. They seldom pay for their feed if kept over a third season.

Grit and oyster shell should be included in the ration for both young and old. To neglect this would be poor economy.

Young stock will do better if not compelled to pick their living with the old. There will also be less trouble from lice.

Shade is one of the most important essentials during the hot months. Get the chicks into the orchard and cornfield.

A growing chick will not thrive on short rations. If the right kind of food is fed there is little danger of overfeeding, especially if they are given plenty of range.

An Inference.

"Did she say she was going to the drug store?"
"No."
"How do you know she was then?"
"She said she was going out walking for her complexion."—Browning's Magazine.
