"For Sandy Always."

CONCERNING SUCCESS.

We are all familiar with the trite quotation, "Nothing succeeds like success." It meets us on all sides. It is the ne plus ultra of argument as to efficiency, and is a literal illustration of the truth of the Master's assertion that "unto him that hath, shall be given"—except that it doesn't always exactly fulfill the Master's conception of the thought.

Nowadays, when the sovereign voters of a municipality are faced with the need of choosing a corps of officials to safeguard the public interests, the voters immediately begin to question the fitness of each man proposed. The ability of the candidate, which in most instances is his chief recommendation (and, in the RIGHT SENSE, it should be), is discussed freely, and the whole industrial and business life of the man is laid bare to the public gaze. But the clinching argument is that he has SUCCEEDED. His own affairs have been prosecuted with energy and vigor, and with intelligence and sound judgment. As a result, he is what the whole world pronounces a successful man.

Now we argue that if this man has been so successful with his own affairs it necessarily follows that he will be equally so with the affairs of the people. So we rally and place him in power—and in too many instances awake to the fact that we have dropped our candy.

It is true that "nothing succeeds like success," but not in the sense in which we mostly accept it. Nothing so well succeeds in blinding us to the real defects of human character as a little success in a particular line. Who has not seen the disastrous failure of many men who have been successful in the lines with which they were familiar, when they have undertaken work for which they had neither aptitude, knowledge or training?

It is discouraging indeed to the citizen possessed of real civic pride to see the destinies of his community committed to men who have nothing better to recommend them than the fact that they have accumulated money and property. This success instead of being a recommendation, is too often a fatal barrier to their usefulness, in that it shows self-interest to be their ruling passion.

Many of earth's greatest benefactors have been men who never accumulated much wealth. In many instances the reverse is true—they have spent and been spent in the service of humanity.

We are most forcibly reminded of the truth of this assertion on reading of the death of Count Zeppelin in Germany recently. Born of a noble family, heir to princely estates, he early in life was imbued with an idea to further the progress of the human race by developing air navigation. His time, his energy, and the bulk of his vast fortune went into the experiments—until at his death it was what one might term a "successful failure." He had entirely lost sight of his own interests but he had conferred on humanity a boon which, in the arts of peace, time alone can estimate, for the day will come when rapid transit in the air will be as common as the railroads of today.

In our municipal affairs let us lose the idea that the man who is successful with his own affairs will be the same with the affairs of the people. We have seen a man who accumulated a fortune at stock raising, but who, when entrusted by his people with building a system of pike roads, sunk a large bond issue in mud. He had raised steers and knew how. He had NEVER built roads, and FAILED when he attempted it.

Success is relative. The man who can construct a perfect street is a pronounced success, though he hasn't a dollar to his name.

And the greatest success of all is that of the man who can aid in the success of the largest number of his fellow men.

Let us cease conferring office upon men merely as a tribute to their success. Find the man with the ability to perform the duties required, and then entrust them to him.

Success will be the result.

In the course of this war, reader, the opportunity will be yours to duplicate one of the greatest miracles of the Master. The multitude will demand food.

An exchange speaks of a recent meeting as "a gathering of noted agriculturists." The farmers, of course, were at home preparing for crops.

A noted writer predicts that the time will come when all people will be compelled to be placed on rations. Gosh, hurry it up.

We don't believe a word of this talk that women want to join the army and navy. Every applicant would have to tell her age.

It is said that "figures won't lie," but it beats the deuce how many liars around this town can figure.

American dollars are at a discount in Spain. But this won't last long. Some enterprising yankee will buy 'em up and bring 'em back and crib the discount.

SUMMONS

In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon, for the County of Clackamas.

Joseph A. Albel,

Plaintiff

vs.

Hannig, the wife of August Hannig, deceased; or her unknown heirs; and the unknown heirs of August Hannig, deceased; and also all other persons or parties unknown, claiming any right, title, estate, lien or interest, in the real property described in the complaint,

Defendants

To ——— Hannig, the wife of August Hannig, deceased; or her unknown heirs; and the unknown heirs of August Hannig, deceased; and also all other persons or parties unknown, claiming any right, title, estate, lien or interest, in the real property described in the complaint:

In the Name of the State of Oregon, you are hereby required to appear and answer the complaint filed against you in the above entitled suit on or before the 25th day of June, 1917, and if you fail to appear or answer said complaint, for want thereof, plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in said complaint, to-wit: For a decree that the plaintiff is the owner in fee simple of the following described real property:

All of the Northeast quarter of the Northwest quarter of Section 4 T. 2 S., R. 4 East of the Willamette Meridian; Save and except two (2) acres, more or less, described in Book 110, Page 634 of Deed Records of Clackamas County;

And that said defendants, or any of them, have no right, title, estate, lien or interest in or to said real property, or any part thereof; and that each of the above named defendants, be forever barred and estopped from claiming any right, title, estate, lien or interest in said real property, or any part thereof; and that said real property, and the whole thereof, be forever quieted; and for such other relief as to the court may seem just and equitable, save and except whatever rights R. E. Jarl may have, by virtue of a mortgage recorded in Book 74, Page 469 of Mortgage Records of Clackamas County, Oregon.

This summons is published by virtue of an order of J. U. Campbell, Judge of the above entitled court, requiring that said summons be published in the Sandy News for twelve consecutive weeks.

Formosa's Camphor.

The camphor production of the island of Formosa is one of Japan's monopolies. The present area of camphor afforestation is 10,650 acres, and some of the trees are from 500 to 1,000 years old. During the next few years the area will probably be greatly extended.

His Comeback.

Mrs. Jawback—I suppose you consider your judgment far superior to mine. Mr. Jawback—No, my dear. We proved the contrary when we chose to marry each other.

ANOTHER ANTI-BOND ISSUE EXPLODED

Opponents Maliciously Allege That Only a Few Counties Will Benefit.

In an attempt to array different counties against the $6,000,000 road bond bill, opponents of the measure are maliciously alleging that few counties will be able to avail themselves of the bond measure for the reason that the cost of preparing roads for hard-surfacing under the terms of the bond bill will exceed the actual cost of hard-surfacing and, therefore, be greater than those counties can afford.

Meeting this misrepresentation, the State Highway Commission at its recent meeting in Salem reiterated its previously announced policy on this subject. All that will be required of the counties under this policy will be the preparation of grade of the roads to be hard-surfaced. This means that a county will merely need to bring a road to grade and drain it before the state applies the hard-surfacing. The rock base is considered a part of the hard-surfacing and will be built by the state, assures the Highway Commission.
