There was an article in the news, recently which stated that a rich collector paid fifty thousand dollars for a bust.

We heard about some that sold for much less than that, New Year's Eve.

We are indeed glad to welcome the new year. 1937 was one of those "lean" years for many families. As a matter of fact, the job census showed many more millions in the "lean" column. We might be speaking for ourselves and we might not. We did have a conversation with a minister, recently, and when we asked him if he believed a man could be a Christian on a dollar and a half a day, he replied, "I don't see how you could be anything else on that salary." Well, that puts a lot of folks in the Christian class, even if they don't know it.

We know a man so lazy, he gets up at four A. M. so he'll have a longer day to loaf.

When a man gets that lazy, he generally decides that the city needs saving and offers himself as a candidate for the city council.

And speaking of snakes reminds us of the little school girl who said that Adam and Eve lived happily in the Garden of Eden until the "servant" arrived.

With so many newspaper accounts of drunken drivers in the Portland papers, it appears as tho the drunken drivers are plastered all over the front pages.

This is all hearsay, but we read that the chief difference between a bachelor and a married man is that while the bachelor is cagey, the married man is just caged.

Much money is spent on comic operas, but never was one so expensive as that being played in Washington at the present time. A good idea would be to sell the broadcast rights of the entire congressional session to some national advertiser and thereby re-imburse the dear public to some extent.

The president makes a speech. The Democrats laud him and the Republicans hiss him. Democrats or Republicans, they are all politicians and professional politicians are our most expensive luxuries.

If you are contrary minded, consider the fact that the special session produced just one piece of major legislation—that of supplying the congressmen with Christmas mileage, and many of them stayed in Washington, too.

The world's second hardest job is writing a political speech. The hardest is listening to it.

Vice-President Garner says that the public will look more favorably on congress, later on. Yeah, time is a great healer.

Someone remarked that in the old days, you had a party and talked about it for a week, but now days you have a party and are talked about for a week.

THE COBBLER'S COLUMN

Ivan Barker, Who is somewhat of a ladies' man, has invented a new style of hair dress for high school shieks. It consists of a wide curl, running around and back of the ears to serve as a rain spout in rainy weather.

Straight From The Shoulder

To the Editor: In the Sunday issue Fred L. Urban stated "before we will allow ourselves to be driven back to the A. F. of L. we will get ourselves a job in a sheep camp. There at least we can keep our self-respect."

Now, all I know about this "union business" is what I read in "union business" is what I read in bit about sheep camps and their personnel. Friendly, hard-working, hard-fighting men who see to it that their own "noses are clean" and demand the same from their neighbor. Men, who under no circumstances, would take dictation from any but those qualified by hard work and actual experience to give it. Men who know their work and fulfill their duties, even at the risk of their own lives.

Would a shepherd walk off and leave his innocent charges? Never! Would a camp tender walk off and leave his herder to know the pangs of hunger? Never! In a sheep camp the job of caring for the helpless is the job which is completed first.

They are men who are scorned by all other professions—but keep your self-respect, brothers. You'd have to work like hell to earn theirs. GARY WALDRON,
