Dilly Dallys

It appears that we got in dutch last week because of a statement that Louie Rich jerked sodas and "schnapps" at Schmitz. We believed that "schnapps" was the German word for beer. Now comes one who knows and corrects us, saying that "schnapps" means whiskey. This is unfortunate, indeed, because it goes without saying that Frank Schmitz does not sell "schnapps" (whiskey to you) and it pains us to report that as far as we know he doesn't even give it away.

Well, to date, we haven't been challenged on the balance of the wise crack that stated that a man had only half a mind when he got married, anyhoo.

There is no doubt about it, Sandy should well be pround of its two junior musical organizations, the high school band and the grade school rhythm band. Their appearance at the Grange meeting was as colorful as any demonstration of youthful talent could be. Sandy should appreciate the type of instruction that makes for such organizations as these.

Boy, oh boy, did those ladies of the grange put up a feed at the meeting Wednesday? It would be ungrateful, indeed, not to show real appreciation for the privilege of sitting in on that spread. Bob Smith had a little trouble, though. The ladies inadvertantly overlooked the mashed potatoes on his serving and he simply couldn't make the peas stay on his knife.

This age certainly cannot complain about getting value for their money. Why, for the price of a pack of cigarettes you can hear colossal radio pragrams, read unsolicited testimonials and see beautiful women with smokes poised in their dainty hands on the billboards—and get some cigarettes, too.

We hope to buy a radio some day that won't fade when the comedian is telling the point of his gag and then boom in again just in time for the commercial.

Note To Motorists

Don't worry about body rumbling. A little castor oil will fix that.

Advice To The Roadworn

Smith Motor Co.,
Sandy, Oregon.
Gentlemen;

I'm sure I'll never be able to thank you for what you have done for my fenders, radiator, body, and almost every thing else about me. I tell you, if I weren't running and looking as good as ever, I would not think it possible.

Why only a week ago I was all torn to pieces after an argument with a gravel truck. And now—well as I said before, I can hardly believe I'm myself again. How in the world can you do it?

Gratefully,
Little Auto.

Dear Little Auto;

Huh, that's nothing.
Sincerely,
Bob Smith

BERRY GROWERS TO HOLD ALL-DAY MEET

Clackamas county berry growers interested in problems of disease and insect pest control, soil management and other problems confronting all growers, are invited to attend meetings called by J. J. Inskeep, county agent, during which these problems will be discussed by certain members of the Oregon State college staff.

All-day meetings will be held at the grange hall at Boring, beginning at 9:30 a.m. Thursday, January 20, and on the same hours at the Estacada high school the following day, Friday, January 21.

Morning sessions will be taken up by discussion of control of spittle bugs, strawberry root weevil, and several other insect pests attacking strawberries and cane fruit. S. M. Zeller will talk on strawberry crinkle and other plant diseases. Both talks will be illustrated with lantern slides.

At the meeting at Boring, luncheon will be served by the grange home economics committee.

In the afternoon County Agent Inskeep will talk on fundamentals of building and maintaing soil fertility. This subject will be a general talk of interest to all farmers, with emphasis placed on methods of purchasing commercial fertilizers to cut costs.

Following will be a discussion by O. T. McWhorter, extension horticulturist, who will sumarize results of berry fertilizer trials in other states. Mr. McWhorter will also take up management problems of general interest.

Topics talked upon in the afternoon will be illustrated with a complete set of charts.

Frank Christensen Resigns From Telephone Company

An announcement was made this week of the resignation of Frank Christensen from the poistion of local manager of the West Coast Telephone Company. Mr. Christensen tendered his resignation in order to devote his full time to the organization of the new Sandy cooperative company that has already started to take shape.

Mr. Christensen has been actively engaged in telephone work in the district for more than thirty one years. "I have spent that many years of my life in the business in Gresham and Sandy and during that time have never missed a payday," states Mr. Christensen.

At the time of going to press, the West Coast Company had not issued a statement regarding their future plans.
