Crop Insurance Offered Farmers

Crop Insurance, which seeks to enable the farmer to have wheat to sell every year whether his crop fails or not, will soon be ready for wheat farmers of the United States.

Title V of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1933, known as the Federal Crop Insurance Act, makes crop insurance for wheat available to farmers who want it. It establishes a Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, which will offer wheat farmers insurance on their crop against losses from unavoidable causes such as drought, flood, hail, wind, tornado, fire, insect pests, and plant diseases.

Insurance policies will be offered beginning with the crop for harvest in 1939. Premiums for insurance on the 1939 crop must be paid at the time the farmer gets his policy. The amount of premiums to be paid will depend upon the crop-loss experience both on the farm and for the county in which the farm is located. All premiums are to be in actual wheat or its cash equivalent, and actual wheat is to be stored by the Corporation to pay losses to farmers.

Government crop insurance for Clackamas County wheat growers will cost an average of about 1.7 bushels per acre, if three-fourths coverage is taken, and .7 bushels per acre if one-half coverage only is desired, or by cash based on the market price of wheat at the time an application is made for a policy.

The average wheat yield per for this county during the 10 year period used in calculating county rate is 25 bushels. The cost of insurance is based, however, not so much on the average amount of yield as on the year to year variation in yield. Two farmers with the same average yield for the 10 year period may not necessarily pay the same premium for the same

Sandy Drug Offers Junior Contest

The Sandy Drug store announces a new contest this week in cooperation with the Junior Business Builders, a national organization. Beautiful and useful prizes are given, the tops amongst which at the drug store is a high priced bicycle.

Fifteen boys and girls have already signed up and also have many customers signed up. The entries call on a customer of the drug store, ask them to sign with them, and then each purchase made at the store casts so many votes for the contestant. Prizes will be awarded each week and then final prizes at the close of the contest.

BRIGHTWOOD

Monday, July 4th, was a very lively and a very busy day, also very noisy. Fireworks of all descriptions were heard all day and far into the night. No casualties were reported.

Picking wild blackberries is the order of the day at present, and they are quite plentiful. Mrs. McIntyre and her sister, Mrs. Jonsrud have a good lot canned at the present writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Gunlicson with their two young sons, have started back to North Dakota with their new house trailer. Mr. Gunlicson will work harvesting in various places on the way. They plan to sell their surplus possessions there, and return to Oregon not later than next spring.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Humphreys went to Bonneville Friday to attend the dedication of the locks, and also visit their son Albert and wife. Albert is one of the Office Engineers at the Dam.

Mrs. Ed Strong and three children went to spend the week-end with her husband's parents, the H. W. Strongs, at the berry ranch near Gresham.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Williams and little son, have gone to Spokane to reside for the present, as Mr. Williams has found work there.

percentage of coverage, County Agent J. J. Inskeep, points out. The farmer who suffered but little crop loss would pay less than the farmer who suffered frequent and heavy losses, even though their average yields were the same.

As the government insurance starts with the 1939 crop, if you want insurance call at the Agricultural Conservation Office, room 4, basement of the Post Office building, Oregon City at your earliest convenience to make out an application.

Irrigation Advised by County Agent

The value of irrigation water on Clackamas County farms is well illustrated on Berg Brothers' farm at Barlow and Staehely Brothers at Central Point, says County Agent, J. J. Inskeep.

While most crops in Clackamas county are suffering for want of moisture, Berg Brothers have irrigated their 18 acres of Ladino clover at a small cost and Staehely Brothers have continuous pasture for 60 head of Guernsey cows.

These two farms are typical of the value of irrigation under Clackamas County conditions.

An inspection trip into eastern Oregon recently showed abundant moisture east of the mountains and shows that the Willamette valley actually has less rainfall during the summer months than much of the eastern Oregon country.

Eagles Sponsor Titian Candidate

For the third consecutive year, The Ladies Auxiliary of the F. O. E. and the Girls' Drill Team is sponsoring a candidate for Queen of the annual Redhead Roundup at Taft, August 6 and 7.

Leona Hall, popular titian-tressed miss is the Gresham representative in the contest now being staged to elect a Queen, Crown Princess, and four Princesses to rule over the Roundup. Her campaign is being managed by Mrs. Blanche Brady, who so successfully handled the campaigns of Mary Murphy and Marguerite Pethram, previous Gresham candidates for the Roundup tiara, both of whom were elected Princesses, Miss Murphy in 1936 and Miss Pethram in 1937.

Votes for Redhead Roundup Queen are obtained through the purchase of lapel buttons, which sell at 25c and are good for full admission to all Roundup events, except the Queen's Ball. Each button carries with it a coupon good for 1000 votes for Queen.

Rhododendron

Sixty cars awaited at the gate of the Sky Line road Saturday morning for the opening to the lake region of the Mt. Hood National forest. Several hundred cars visited this beautiful fishing spot during the holidays and cabins and boats were all rented at Olallie lake long before the day opened. Fishing was reported excellent and many limit catches made both in Olallie and Fish lakes.

A first aid club has been organized for this community by the persons who took the Red Cross course under the leadership of Ray O'Brien, first aid man of the forest service, and sponsored by the Welches parent-teachers association. The object of the club will be to keep in first aid practice and to make an effort to secure a first aid car for the mountain area. Norwood Haas has been named chairman of the new club, Mrs. Haas, secretary, and Mrs. Ray O'Brien, treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Potter and Jacquelyn and Lyle were Sunday guests of the Ray Murrays. Jacquelyn was one of the princesses in the junior rose festival in Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Roberts and Mr. and Mrs. Wilton Roberts entertained friends from The Dalles over the fourth.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Alt of Portland are employed at the Rhododendron store for the summer.

Young Dan and Douglas "Barker" have added many friends to their list the past week since coming to make their home with Mr. and Mrs. Ivan A. Barker. The boys are twins, about eighteen months old, and will be permanent members of the Barker family if present negotiations for adoption materialize.

Coming Events

Thursday, July 14.—Installation of officers Sandy Rebekah lodge.

Sunday, July 17.—Annual Sandy grange picnic at Bull Run, Butler's park.

Sunday, July 24.—Sandy Ridge Woman's club picnic at Dodge park.

Sunday, July 31.—Annual Pioneer association meeting.

Sandy Residents in Auto Wrecks

Several Sandy people figured in auto accidents over the week-end, some seriously, some badly shaken up. Dale Stewart's milk truck, driven by Emmett Mills, collided with a car at the Orient junction Saturday morning, injuring young Kieth Schneider, son of Dr. and Mrs. H. A. Schneider, who was riding with Emmett and badly cutting the other passengers of the other car.

Little Jerry Tucker, four-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Sol Tucker, who recently moved into the Proctor house near the Sandy Tire shop, was knocked down by an Iowa tourist on the highway Saturday afternoon. Jerry had started to run across the road, saw the car coming and turned. The Iowa man, Harold Harper, made every effort to stop but was unable to. The car knocked the child several feet, giving him some bad cuts about the head. He was taken first to Gresham and later to the Portland sanitarium.

Parkdale to Play Here Sunday

The Sandy Merchant's baseball team will again play on the home field, when they meet Parkdale, Sunday, July 17th. The boys beat Parkdale on the 4th in a real game and it is expected that Parkdale will be here with "blood in their eyes." Let's get out a crowd and help keep the victory laurels here.

Bridal Veil played just a little faster ball than the Sandy team Sunday, running up a lead in the first inning that the local men couldn't catch. The score ended 6 to 1 with Woelert and Bacon, batteries for Sandy; and Lundquist and Savior for Bridal Veil.

Sandy Locals

Several dicampidon, more commonly known as water dogs, were shipped last week to the Washington University by G. D. Orr for Richard Lundeen. The freakish looking things, measuring about 11 inches, were shipped alive and were caught in Deep Creek near Richard's home.

Bail was set at $2500 for T. S. Lindsay of Cherryville who is held in the Oregon City jail on an assault with a dangerous weapon charge. The charge was the result of an argument between Mr. Lindsay and J. Gant of Gant's mill last week over a collection account.

The semi-annual installation of officers will be held for the Sandy Rebekah lodge Thursday evening in the I. O. O. F. hall.
