

BEYOND THAT

"Have you a speaking acquaintance with the woman next door?"
"Speaking acquaintance! Why, I know her so well that we don't speak at all."

Misstated

With a terrific crash, the motorcar shot headlong into the hole in the road.

"Here, you!" yelled the watchman. "Did you see that notice saying the road was closed?"

"I did," replied the motorist, as he started to climb out of the hole, "but I found it wide open."

He'll Fix That

"I'm afraid I really cannot see you just now."

"Good—I'm selling spectacles."

Place for Him

He was relating his adventures to his fiancée.

"I had to hack my way through almost impenetrable jungle," he said. "Chopping, slashing at thick undergrowth and trees."

"Oh, George," said she, "you'll be an expert at weeding the garden!"

"HOLLYWOOD was never like this!"

Jean Arthur was talking. Dressed in faded jeans, a leaky sombrero and a blouse that most women would use for a dusting rag, she stood in front of the adobe hut which is her dressing room at Old Tucson. Old Tucson is just what it means, a reproduction of the original walled city of the sixties, where Wesley Ruggles is currently filming Clarence Budington Kelland's "Arizona." Situated 16 miles north of present-day Tucson, it is a monument to movie ingenuity, a village of 125 buildings, re-created by Columbia studios' technicians from the original plans of early Tucson.

"Running water is a luxury out here," Miss Arthur said, wiping the perspiration from her face. "To speak of hot water is heresy. There just isn't any. Not that a tub of water wouldn't reach the boiling point if placed in the sun, but there are so many horses, cows, dogs and pigs around here that a tub of water wouldn't have a chance to get warm."

She has turned her back on glamour these days. She is bent only on making "Phoebe Titus," who sold pies for a dollar apiece, believable and real. She is starred in "Arizona," with William Holden and Warren William backing her up, and she's going to give us a picture worth seeing and remembering.

The mail response to Johnny Green's new Sunday evening "Rhyme-O" program seems to upset the common belief that writing poetry is the special province of a selected few. On this musical audience-participation program, Johnny uses four-line verses, and asks listeners to send them, $5 going to the writer of each verse used.

In one week Green received 10,000 individual letters containing rhymes—and there was an average of three rhymes in each letter.

The Andrews Sisters, famous "swing" trio formerly heard on Columbia Broadcasting company's networks with Glenn Miller and his orchestra, have journeyed to Hollywood; they're broadcasting nightly from a night club there, and preparing to be starred with the Rita brothers in a Universal picture called, of all things, "Argentine Nights!"

ODDS AND ENDS

When the sequence of Columbia's "Society Girl" called for composition of a song, musical director Ted Steele dashed off a few bars, and ever since, people have been writing in to ask the name of the composition and where they can buy it; it's probably the only successful four-bar song in history.

Lloyd Nolan scored such a personal triumph in "Johnny Apollo" that he's been given the leading role in 20th Century-Fox's "I Married a Nazi," replacing the be-dimpled Richard Greene, whose illness caused him to leave the cast

Grog

PEOPLE say a man "likes his grog" today but when the word first came into use early in the Eighteenth century it was because those who drank it didn't like it. Here's why: Admiral Edward Vernon of the British navy was called "Old Grog" because at sea he always wore a cape of cloth called "grogam"—water-resistant material of either mohair or wool mixed with silk.

Admiral Vernon

The seamen under his command were served a half-pint of rum or brandy each noon and drank all of it at once—probably so no one else would get it. To prevent their stomachs from receiving too hearty a jolt, the admiral ordered the daily allowance diluted with a quart of water and six hours of time—serving it in two installments, one at 11 in the morning and the other at four in the afternoon.

Although the stomachs may have appreciated this change, the sailors didn't and they referred contemptuously to their daily ration of liquor as "grog," after "Old Grog" who had ordered it. So widely was the term used that inns became known as grog shops in England—and still are.

This British admiral had something else more familiar to Americans named after him. Among his many friends and admirers in the American colonies was Lawrence Washington, who gave his estate on the banks of the Potomac in Virginia the name of Mt. Vernon. When he died Mt. Vernon became the property of his half-brother, George Washington.

London Bobby

IN AMERICA a policeman may be a "cop" or a "bull" but in London, he's a "bobby." And he's that because in 1829 Sir Robert Peel, home secretary in the duke of Wellington's cabinet, created the London metropolitan police force. At first these officers of the law were referred to by Londoners as "Sir Robert's men." Then as Peel's popularity increased and he was known by the affectionate diminutive of "Bobby," they began calling his policemen "Bobby's men." From that it was only a step to referring to them as "bobbies" and "bobbies" they are to this day.

Robert Peel

Nor is this the only common word in which the fame of this Briton, who twice served as prime minister (1834-35 and 1841-46), has been perpetuated. While serving as secretary for Ireland in Lord Liverpool's cabinet, Sir Robert established the Irish constabulary. Naturally they weren't especially popular with the "fightin' Irish" who referred to them as "peelers," i.e., Sir Robert Peel's men. That word crossed the Atlantic with Irish emigrants to America and since so many of that race became policemen in our cities you'll find some old-fashioned folk who still call policemen "peelers" rather than "cops" or "bulls."
