"PEACE WITHOUT HONOR"

All the world is waiting breathlessly the fate of the peaceful nation of France which seems to lie in the hands of a power-mad dictator.

It is hard to judge the right and wrong side of the question with propaganda flowing so freely on both sides, but born and reared in a democratic country we can see no reason for power by bloodshed.

Being an American we are like millions of others who want to do everything we can short of war to help the thousands and thousands of innocent women and children, and men who have fought bravely for their countries in vain. We ask you to support the Red Cross.

Clackamas county has not reached its quota which means that each and every one of us have not been able to give one penny. The Red Cross does not necessarily expect large donations but wants each to help the cause with a nickel, a dime or whatever the individual can afford.

In the humanitarian acts of the American Red Cross there are many times when actual cash is the only acceptable medium of aid. We can and we should help. How could we as a democratic nation foster a "peace without honor" in our souls should we fail to do all we can in such a dire time of need.

Beautiful Flowers Attract Many

Some beautiful delphiniums have been exhibited this week in the office of the Sandy Post, a pleasant gift of Mrs. Louise G. Miller from her garden east of town. The spikes are from three to four feet in length and covered entirely with large florets of different shades of blue.

Other flowers to create interest here were the roses exhibited at LaGourgue's and grown by Mrs. Nettie Connett. They were evidently a cross between a rose and a rhododendron, resulting in a beautiful flower, some resembling a single rose and some a poppy, but all with the fragrance of the rose.

piecing quilts and therefore expert in exercising her heart's desire. One of Mrs. Backus' most beautiful pieces of work is now under construction, a basket of tulips appliqued on a white background to form a quilt block. With each stitch comes the thought "a grandchild may need something to start a hope chest."

Bob Borg of Portland, passed through Marmot this week with his herd of horses bringing them from Wamic where they have been on pasture, to begin the season of horseback riding and rodeos.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Johnson and daughter Janette Vanderhoof from northern Washington visited relatives and friends at Marmot recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Lind of Gielis were in Marmot on business last week.

Those visiting at the home of H. I. Stevenson Sunday were: Tom and George Lloyd, Jim Stevenson and "Slim" Jensen, all of Forest Grove.

Sportsmens News

Opposition to the creation of the proposed Cascade Range National park, extending along the summit of the Cascade range from the Canadian to the Mexican borders, was expressed by the Oregon State Game commission at its last monthly meeting.

The commission voted to concur resolutions previously adopted by the Washington State Sportsmen's council.

Creation of the proposed park would remove control of all wildlife in this area from state control and according to the resolution the proposed action is another step in governmental encroachment upon state rights.

Copies of the resolution are being forwarded to Pacific coast members of congress with the request that the plan be fought vigorously.

Mrs. Jack Keck of Dover spent last week in Bend visiting her husband. While there she also visited Len Estes, who was recently released from the Lumbermen's hospital following an operation. Word was received Saturday that Mr. Estes had been forced to return to the hospital on account of a bad heart attack.

Mr. Estes, who is a cousin-in-law of Mrs. Fern C. Lambert of the Sandy Post has been in Sandy several times endeavoring to find a location for a tourist camp grounds. Recently however he and Mrs. Estes have purchased a restaurant at Ontario, Oregon.
