The night after election a great meeting was held in Carnegie Hall in New York, not to celebrate a victory or mourn a defeat but to bury the hatchet. Men and women of all political beliefs, of all racial origins, all creeds and faiths, spoke the same language. The keynote was the one word: 'Unity.'

Nothing could better express the spirit of democracy than this determination to stand united as a people behind the leaders of the people's choice, after the most bitter and hard-fought Presidential election of many years. In the campaign every animosity of group against group, class against class, race against race, creed, was brought out into the open and used by one side or the other to further its ends. All of the fears, the hatreds, the suspicions and the distrusts felt by any Americans against other Americans were thoroughly aired.

Now, having got all those things off our chests, it is time to forget them, at least until the next election, and to get together as Americans. We make it our business, the business of every one of us, to revive the true spirit of America and to keep it alive in a world where everything America stands for seems to be threatened.

Nothing would make the eneemies of human liberty happier than to see Americans divided among themselves. Nothing could endanger our national safety more than to keep alive or aggravate the antagonisms which showed themselves in the recent campaign. We have a big job ahead of us, a job in which all must do their part and none must be permitted to hinder. That is the job of building our national defenses to the point where we can be perfectly sure that no possible attack from outside our shores can be effective.

Only by so safeguarding our physical boundaries can we be sure of keeping alive the spiritual heritage which is the real America. If proof were needed that the American people are united in that objective, it is provided by the fact that there was no issue as between parties or candidates on that question. All were agreed that the first need of the nation is to speed up work on our defenses, and give all possible help to the few remaining democracies overseas who are fighting for the same objectives that we of America must preserve.

So let us bury the hatchet and pull together to prove that democracy is not an outworn, but a living, vital force, the greatest force in the world today.

FFA NEWS—

The new agriculture shop has been completed, and the boys have all moved their projects over to it from the regular shop department. This shop has many electric and metal tools. This shop will furnish more room for both the shops, as they are quite large.

The FFA thanksgiving program will be held in the lunch room, second period, Thursday, November 28. Mr. Messali, a local man, will be the speaker. A program will be worked out for this meeting, by Bob Ten Eyck, Ray King, Winnifred Chilton, and Nephtelyn Sinner, who are members of the club.

Sandy High School News

(By Lois Shearman)

Thanksgiving Day the Sandy Pioneers clashed with the Canby Cougars on Canby's gridiron at 10:15 a. m. The game was won by Sandy with a score of 14 to 6.

In the first half one touchdown was made for Sandy by Wilbur Booth, and the conversion was made by Melvin Mullens.

In the third quarter Canby made a touchdown, but failed to make the conversion.

In the last quarter there was another touchdown made for Sandy by Wallace Scales and the conversion was made by Booth. The final score being 14 to 6 for Sandy.

Due to the fact that Sandy won the Thanksgiving game, Sandy now leads the Big Nine in competition for the football trophy. This trophy is always presented to the school in the Big Nine League, which has won the most games during the football season.

The ushers, usherettes, stage managers and production as well as the cast of the Senior play, all went on a skating party Monday night to celebrate the finish of the play. Others also joined the party, the total number going, 45

The Home Economics club held their annual initiation in the Sandy Home Ec room. There were approximately 33 initiated. There was a dinner served in the Home Ec room after the ceremony was over, for all the members present.

The president of the Home Ec club has already appointed the committees for the football banquet. The date for the banquet has been set for December 4.

This is the annual 'Crimson S' and Home Ec banquet which is held for the 'Crimson S' boys every year.

Thirty-two is the number having turned out for basketball this season, most of them being sophomores and juniors. The rook turnout was less in number.

There are seven returning let-terms including: Crain, Con Cannon, Marx, Scales, Hickey, Mullen and Dagsland.
