THE LOW DOWN from HICKORY GROVE

Looking a gift horse in the mouth is maybe not so super-polite but it is good horse sense. Otherwise, before you get him home he might be that kind that would cave in on you and you would have acquired for yourself some burial expenses. It is just about likewise when the Govt. offers to give to some town or community a nice power house or dam on some river or creek for 10 cents on the dollar, or free and the town or community takes it because it looks like a bargain.

Nothing is a bargain if you don't need it, like a 100 set of books on veterinary science is no good at 6 bits to a guy with no horse, or a farmer buying a 15 dollar plug hat for 50 cents, he is just out 50 cents.

In the early days out in the shorthour country the natives would now and then pick off a customer for a useless 100 acre ranch. And if the guy was a bit slow and not too alert they would slip an extra 100 acres in on the deed. And when the tenterfoot woke up he just had for himself some more, and new, taxes and expenses. Many a gift horse has the heaves.

Yours with the low down,
JOE SERRA.
