THE LOW DOWN from HICKORY GROVE

Anyone hesitating about some more war stamps or a bond because they have enough or maybe they think they cannot afford it, they should put on their old thinking cap and ponder a couple of minutes, and partner, if they do so, they will reach for their hat and seed down to the bank or postoffice. Being able to afford a bond is 100 percent different from buying something that is gonna wear out or be used up and gone a few years hence when maybe cash money will not be bulging so heavy in the old hip pocket. Instead of not being able to afford an extra bond it is vice versa. It is not being a spendthrift, spending money for the stamps or a bond. Here is one place where you can spend your dough and then turn around in a few years and get it all back, plus a present as interest, to boot.

Go down and make that extra investment right now, pull in your belt, cut out some of your didos and foolin' around, think about how it might be hereabouts if the other side should win this war.

Yours with the low down.

JOE SERRA.
