Hand Tools Rank at Top of Farm Accident Causes

Hand tools such as axes, and pitch forks are responsible for more accidents on Oregon farms than either machinery, vehicles or animals, available farm accident figures indicate according to W. A. Schoenfeld dean and director of agriculture at Oregon state college.

Dean Schoenfeld calls attention to Oregon farm accident causes in connection with National

An army doctor was questioning the new nurse about her soldier patient: "Have you been keeping a chart of his progress?" The nurse blushing replied: "No, but I can show you my dairy."

Mr. Blue. I hear you aren't speaking to your wife any more. Mr. Brown. I wouldn't say that. I tried for years, but now I just listen.

Joe How come you never get tired of working. Bill. I always stop and rest before I get tired.

She. There are men and there are men but— He. Yes, She. But you aren't either.

Harry. I call my girl perpetual munchin'. Jerry. You mean perpetual motion, don't you.

Harry. No. She's always eating.

Jones. I'm neither a Democrat nor a Republican. I always vote for the best man. Smith. But how can you tell who is the best man until after the election.

ed at the top of the list of causes of farm accidents for farmers operating under the workmen's compensation law. In second place were power driven or horse driven vehicles followed by ladders and steps, power-driven machinery, nails and silver animals, poisonous plants and insects and falling, slipping flying objects.

Sprained backs accounted for the largest number of injuries of one specific type the report says. Lacerated fingers were second and fractured ribs third.

Industry has demonstrated time and again that accidents can be drastically reduced by analysis of hazards and an educational campaign to teach people to take precautions, the state chairman said. Reductions of as much as 50 percent in factory and traffic accidents have resulted from prevention programs, Dean Schoenfeld said in pointing to a need for recognition that the farm accident rate has steadily increased to a point where agriculture today is one of the most hazardous industries.

Details on Higher Wheat Loan Rates Sent Offices

Increase in wheat loan rates for the 1944 crop announced by the Community Credit corporation makes the basic price at Portland $1.46 for No. 1 grade. The state AAA office has distributed to all county offices a complete schedule of rates for shipping points throughout the state.

The rates range from $1.089 at Burns to $1.381 at Hillsboro. A few southern Oregon points are based on San Francisco which affords a higher rate than the Portland base at their distances. The increase in the wheat rate amounts to 7 cents per bushel and places the loan level at 90 per cent parity instead of the previous 85 percent.

DONALD HYDE OF EAGLE CREEK DEAD

Word has been received of the death of Donald Hyde of Eagle Creek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hyde. No particulars have been received as to the cause of his death. Funeral services will be held Friday from the chapel of Holman & Lutz.

Farm Safety week, July 23 to 29, of which he is state chairman. The heavy toll taken each year by avoidable farm accidents he says represents such an unwarranted physical sacrifice on the part of farm workers and such a financial loss that everyone connected with agriculture is asked to join in this program of farm safety.

The annual report of the accident prevention division of the state industrial accident commission shows that hand tools rank-
