MANIFOLD LOVE

We must remember that Love is to be cultured. Without careful development and cultivation it will die. Treat Love as you would your flowers; and listen to its sweet voice, even as you seek to understand the language of your flower garden. As I walk among my flowers I hear them say to me, "You can make any thing of us you like; you can so bring us together and we will produce new colors and new forms; you can so treat us that we shall be miracles of beauty and form; do not neglect us, or scorn us."

by permitting us to live out a solitary existence, but study our characteristics and our botanical features, and we will respond to your tender care with wealth of beauty beyond your fondest dreams."

And that's the way it is with Christ's sweet Love. When given our hearts full devotion it becomes so varied in its manifestations. Now it is a Missionary asking for the widest sea and the stormiest waters, that he may cross the deep to blow his silver trumpet in the hearing of those who have never heard, and who sit in a deep and lonely darkness. And sometimes we see Love as a veiled Angel, going quietly about in the night, knocking at doors where sickness and poverty are beating out their pulses in a distress and pain society knows not of. Sometimes it glows in an enthusiastic and heroic spirit of preaching, until the whole land vibrates under the spell of a music resonant with new appeals. Or some times we see it in a somewhat domestic garb, going quietly about the business of the week so silently, unobservedly, doing a thousand little things of which nobody takes heed, or puts it down to credit of Love. Still, they are all done, and the doing of them helps the floral beauty of the world. Where ever we find this Love, we cannot mistake for one moment, its origin and its quality. It of God, for God it Love—THE VILLAGE PASTOR.

OH, OH!!!

Harry Reed in LaGourgue's with two "biful ladies", how come Harry, making a run on the bank Oh, oh.

Hey, going around with a bandaged eye is getting Fred down. How does the other fellow look, Fred. Bang, here goes one resolute jeepers.

What yo mean, the cops looking for the little red wagon. It hain't done nothin'.

Who left that cauliflower on the sittersdowners bench. Durn it Orval, we carried it all the way home and then it smelled to high heaven. Just for that both of yours watch out.

Dick all washed and hair combed and plastered down, all set to sit on our city father's bench. Oh my goodness.

Geo. Strophe says begosh he can sure feed 'em.

Geo. Beers in the drug store says he's gotta keep his customers happy. Yoall got something there, George.

Mack says he just can't keep up with them pennies.

Herby says, "In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thots of love" or some such rubbish. Du tel.

Edna says everybody watch out, it's Thursday.

Green eyes, where is yo at.

Bonds Over America

SAKOKAWEA

Credit for the success of Lewis and Clark's great expedition across the Rockies to the Pacific has long been attributed to Sakokawea, wife of a French interpreter. The Shoshone Indian girl with a baby on her back acted as guide, cook and emissary to the Indian tribes that murderously roamed the dangerous trails from Stanton, North Dakota, to the West Coast. Her statue adorns the State House lawn at Bismarck, serving as a constant inspiration to North Dakotans fighting to defend the great lands she opened to white men. Japs might already have a foothold on that land but for the supplies furnished American service men through the purchase of War Bonds.
