THE LOW DOWN HICKORY GROVE

I am thinking about starting a new contest, I am thinking about calling it, "what makes you hottest under the collar—if anything." I was pondering same on account I been eating around a little, away from home and been observing how food is wasted. I see folks nibble and play around with a nice piece of pie—eat out the middle, and leave the crust. I see gals light a cigarette and flip ashes on a half-empty plate, spoiling what remains even for the cat. Something is wrong. Wrong bringing up maybe. Now you see the idea of the contest.

Folks having ideas send 'em to the Editor, and we will get started. No telling who will win or what. And another sample if you didn't like the pie one, is the way they put this Mr. deMille the radio because he wouldn't kick in with a one buck donation to the political outfit that he didn't think was so hot. He figured he had a right to belong to any party or vice versa. He that he was in the United States.

He stuck to his guns. That gent deserves three cheers. If you want to get into this contest send your outburst to the editor right away. Even if you don't win a prize, it will relieve your blood pressure. Yours with the low down. JOE SERRA.

The happy couple left for a short trip after which they will spend a few days visiting relatives and friends in Bull Run and vicinity. Early in March Sgt. Haneberg reports back to the hospital for further treatment of an injury he received while in action in Italy.

THE VILLAGE PASTOR

OUR PRAYER: To Thee we come, our Father-God, with hopes full gratitude for all the benefits of the Cross of thy Son, the world's only Redeemer, Jesus of Nazareth. Thru Him, thou has spoken to our hearts the gracious words of comfort. Many voices, many tones, many providences day by day, in all the miracle of our poor human life. Thou hast brot us onward and upward even to our present stage of progress; lifting us up from many dejections and giving us unexpected strength, and blessings we had not the courage to hope for.

And these things Thou hast done thru the Cross of Thy Son by which also Thou hast shown unto us all the miracles of eternity and all the wonders and glory and wealth of Heaven. We gaze upon that Cross and our eyes are filled with tears; we look, again, and oh, our whole being is filled with light; yet again we turn our eyes to that uplifted Tree, and behold while we look the dying One lives and gives Eternal Life to all. For He who stooped to die, has become the conqueror of all death.

Do thou enable us then, to live in the spirit of Christ; for then shall we have daily comfort. Then shall we learn to lean all our little crosses against the great Eternal Tree upon which He bore His woe, in order to bring peace upon the earth.—AMEN.

Bonds
Over America

CAESAR RODNEY

After a ride that rivals Paul Revere's, Caesar Rodney broke a tie vote in Delaware's delegation to the Continental Congress at Philadelphia on Lee's resolution for independence. Late on July 1, 1776, he arrived home after quelling a revolt in Sussex County where he received an urgent summons to Philadelphia. Mounting a horse, he rode through the night and arrived in the northern city in time to place Delaware with the other colonies backing the resolution. That spirit of service animates Delaware people in buying War Bonds today to insure liberty for future generations.
