Around The Campfire

With John E. Mills

Let's throw another knot on the coals and take a gander at the thousands of cars passing through Sandy these crisp winter days. Most of them are loaded with young folk and cluttered with skis and toboggans.

These young folk, the children of our neighbors in Portland and other nearby cities, are coming to play in our backyard, Mt. Hood, to play with our children and frolic in the snow with us. Into this wonderful playground increasing thousands come each year to play and compete in one of the world's best known, cleanest and most scientific sports.

Skiers from all parts of the world have enjoyed Mt. Hood's incomparable ski terrain and beauty and our Mountain is fast becoming a mecca for snow sport lovers from all over the U. S. Any list of events to be run off on Mt. Hood's snow fields will reveal names from almost every city in the Northwest.

Many Portland high schools have organized ski teams; industries are sponsoring others while independent ski clubs are springing up like mushrooms. Ski clubs houses are commencing to dot the landscape all around Government Camp both on private property and on land leased from the forest service.

We have the best gardner in the world to look after our playground—the U. S. Forest Service. But what about us? Are we good hosts? Do we fraternize with our guests? Can we play their games? Do we know how to entertain our neighbors? Do we let them know when they pass through our door on the way to the Mountain that we welcome them to our playground?

Sandy has every right to be proud of the athletes who have been developed here in our schools and through community sponsored teams. Just last summer a professional baseball club scooped Darrel Eliason out of our midst. Our boys and girls have always given a good account of themselves in everything from ping pong to football, except, perhaps, skiing.

Don't you think it would look pretty darn nice if we had a Sandy Ski Club banner to stick in the snow alongside of those of our sister towns on festival days on the Mountain, and perhaps had a few Sandy names among the entries?

You'll have a hard time making me believe that Sandy can't turn out just as good a ski team as Gresham or Skamokawa.

And, couldn't we somehow arrange a sign or portal near our western city limits announcing to the world that this is truly the Gateway to Mt. Hood.

Incidentally, our present Olympic ski team, now in Switzerland preparing for the coming winter games, trained on Mt. Hood.

Sandy Boy Scouts To Be Honored; Leader Is Wanted

Six members of Sandy Boy Scout Troop No. 248 will receive advancement in rank at a district court of honor next Tuesday at 8 p.m. at Fairview grade school.

Tack Goodell, Jim Light, Billy Frederickson, Donnie Gomoll and Jim Gunther will be awarded their Second Class Scout pins and Gerald Benson his First Class rank and safety merit badge.

The awards were approved last Thursday night by a board of review composed of Myron Goodell, Kenneth Frederickson and Robert S. Smith, meeting at Sandy grade school.

Scoutmaster Needed
Scoutmaster Charles Lane, who has been in charge of the boys for four years, told The Post this week that he is looking for a man who can take over the 35-boy troop, sponsored by the Sandy Chamber of Commerce.

"We have a group of boys who can do a lot of fine things if we can find the right man who can spend enough time with them," he said.

Mr. Lane teaches at Sandy Grade school and also coaches both boys' and girls' athletic teams.

Many Apply for Timber Permits

Applications for 1948 Forest operating and conservation harvesting permits have been pouring into the local office of the state forester, located at the R. S. Smith garage in Sandy.

The large number of applications received from new operators is giving the Salem forester's office difficulty in issuing the permits as fast as they are applied for, according to George Allman, local forest inspector.

In addition to those who operated last year, permits have been issued to the following loggers and saw mill operators in the Sandy area, as of Jan. 14.

Logging: Leather's Saw Mill, Sandy; P. Glenn Fuber, Eagle Creek; Twin Harbors Lumber Co., Portland; Davis Logging Co.; J. C. Jacques, L. A. Hayter and Randall Bros., all of Estacada; and Hellhake & Madden, Milwaukie.

Saw mills: Leather's Sawmill, Sandy; L. A. Hayter and Randall Bros., both of Estacada; and Twin Harbors Lumber Co., Portland.

Eagle Creek Boys And Girls Begin 4-H Club Classes

EAGLE CREEK — Five girls, members of the 4-H cooking class, learned how to cook breakfast as their first project when the club met last Friday afternoon in the basement lunchroom of the Eagle Creek school. Mrs. John Shoemaker, cooking club leader, instructed the girls in preparing a menu of bacon, oatmeal, cocoa, and toast.

Officers were elected and the following girls were present: Gayle Newsom, Joanne Burnett, Janice Wilson, Edith Robbins, and Roberta Dilly.

A class in sewing, under the direction of Mrs. Lloyd Potter, and one in outdoor cooking for boys, directed by Miss Mary Gibson, also got underway last Friday.

The sewing class started with embroidery work, while the boys from the upper room who are interested in camp cookery got their first lesson in frying bacon and eggs. Home cured bacon was donated to the 4-H club classes for last Friday's meeting by Miss Gibson. The clubs will meet again next Friday for another hour and a half of instruction.

Home-Town Act Started Hutton On Road to Fame

Life began for Betty Hutton in Battle Creek, Michigan, on Feb. 26, 1921. At fourteen Betty got her chance to sing with the band at a local hotel. The first night she sang, Vincent Lopez was eating in the dining room and, impressed with her enthusiasm and singing, signed her with his orchestra. From there it was New York, then Hollywood.

Her first picture was a part in "The Fleet's In," and she was made a star on the strength of her performance. Her latest production for Paramount is the technical musical, "The Perils of Pauline," which comes to the Sandy theatre screen this Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Jan. 18, 19, 20 and 21.
