County Grange Conference Held On January 5 At Warner

Mrs. W. H. Mason
EAGLE CREEK—On January 5 at Warner Grange, about 100 Grangers attended Clackamas County Grange conference. These conferences are put on by the State Grange officers for the benefit of new officers of subordinate granges, and interested grange members. Each officer had a discussion group to explain the duties of that respective office.

At a set time all gathered together again to ask questions from any officer, airing subordinate grange problems and receiving suggestions to straighten these problems.

Agriculture
Agricultural methods were discussed and the county-wide soil conservation survey was explained. The meeting was recessed for a potluck meal.

The evening was set up with folks chosen from the audience to hold the offices as though for an average Grange group. This was judged by the state deputy, Mrs. Norman.

Department Heads
Department heads from the juvenile, youth, lecturer, secretary, H. E. C., were given time to speak on their work.

The weather was a handicap to larger attendance but those who did attend gained much.
