SANDY CATCHALL

By Martin Clark

At long last we finally received a contribution addressed specifically to "Sandy Catchall." This has nothing to do with this particular contribution but as they say in the @*&!!%V?!! Navy, "now hear this": if you get tired of reading about the same names in this column, blame no one but yourself because the only way I have of getting items is by seeing or hearing them personally.

Obviously I can't get around to seeing everyone every week (I know, I know, Grashorn, everyone wouldn't want to see me if I COULD get around), but that doesn't keep anyone with a good item from giving me a ring, writing a note, or dropping in and telling about it personally.

Anyhoo, back to the item that set off the preceding inspiration. It's an anonymous contribution from Bill Drips. Says Bill: "Dear Sandy Catchall:

When it's snowing a guy has to have something to do, so here's an "Anonymous Contribution."

We know Nell's lack of Notes wasn't your fault, but it seemed like a good idea to write about 'em.

Best wishes, Bill Drips
ANONYMOUS CONTRIBUTION
By Bill Drips

The Sandy Post it came today
We looked right quick and tossed it away

Sure, we like the sheet, the ads are swell,
But where in Sandy was our Lil Nell?

Up here it's "Notes" that we read with glee
To see who's avisting with you and me

They tell us stuff we didn't know
And brag of events—and how we glow!

We hear that Nell's been on the shelf
But she's sittin' easier now — just like herself;

But nuts to Boring and Kelso, too
We gotta have Nell and her NOTES—not a FEW!

I must say that Bill was leaning heavily on "poetic license" in that next to last line in the last stanza. Just goes to show what a guy will do when he's hard up for a line to fit the meter of his verse.

Did YOU figure out what the little girl wanted when she came in with the scrawled note: "drug-est give gurl jer man to lay em"? If not, look in Barker's Bugle for the answer and another confuser.

Ivan had to tell me the answer, but it seems most of the children in town figured it out for themselves. Oh well.

If there's any doubt in your mind about the efficacy of Post want ads, be it hereby known that's the way I got my skis, complete with bindings and poles. None other than young Art Colson himself called up the first day the ad appeared and his mother has been thanking me ever since for clearing them out of the house. As ah always say, "to each his own" . . . if he advertises for it.

DID YOU KNOW that the oldest NATIVE BORN (I mean born in Sandy) Sandyite also happens to be Sandy's first mayor? That's right. It was back in 1911 that Ed Bruns, who was born in a log cabin on what is now Sandy Heights 77 years ago this June, was elected mayor of Sandy. If anyone can beat that, I'd like to know who it is. Remember now, they have to have been born in Sandy.

A belated bouquet of rhododendrons to the Sunset Theater for their free matinee for the kids the day before Christmas and to the Sandy Theater for the free passes handed out to all the kids.

THIS WILL COME as something of a shock to some people I know, but a family can't expect to keep these skeletons in the closet indefinitely, and I can't think of a better place for pulling them out than in this column (if you hear any fresh dirt, please let us know first): Mr. and Mrs. Harold Babcock (I hope this doesn't lose Harold's job for him) are the parents of . . . isn't this suspense killing you? . . . are the parents of . . . A TEXAN!!! That's right Their little daughter Nancy is the culprit. Don't forget, YOU READ IT IN THIS COLUMN FIRST!

What's this about Jim Kohnen catching his wife Mary being escorted home by two Sandy males?

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK: One of the most gruesome mistakes a male or female can make is to mistake adulation for understanding.

Firwood Unit Learns To Make With The Hammer

By Lillian Harris

The Firwood extension unit met at the home of Mrs. George Floyd on January 8.

Mrs. LeRoy Lamb gave a demonstration on "Simple Home Repairs." We found out that most of us did not even hold the hammer correctly. No wonder our nails did not go in straight. We learned how to straighten nails, and how to "make" with hammer, saw and plane. A noisy meeting.

Mrs. George Floyd, assisted by Mrs. Olaf Anderson, Mrs. H. A. Longstaff and Mrs. Alvy Lamb, served lunch consisting of tamale pie, french bread, garlicked salad, coffee and incidentals to the following members:

Mesdames Laurence Armstrong, Bill Blake, Roy Dorman, William Harris, Jess McAnally, Harry Nicholson, Kenneth Pearce, E. D. Tompkins, LeRoy Lamb, John Metzger, Walter Wesselink, Miss Irene Smith, Miss Edith Smith and guests, Mrs. Howard Eliason, Mrs. Wallace Oberg, Mrs. Art Colson, Mrs. Lorry Armstrong. Four children were present and also served.

The next meeting will be February 12 at the Sandy Gun Club. This will be a joint meeting with the Sandy Ridge Woman's club. The county agent will give the demonstration on "Becoming Lines." Pot luck lunch will be served at noon with the Sandy Ridge Club as hostesses.

Mrs. Kenneth Pearce, Mrs. George Floyd, and Mrs. Alvy Lamb went to Oregon City for the leader's training in the sewing work shop on January 11.

For the ability to be of service, to a fellow creature, we ought to give thanks, not demand it, since in any true act of helpfulness it is the helper who is most helped.

To the Person Who Never Heard of You YOU DO NOT EXIST

RIGHT NOW

As you read this, you may be sitting next to other people. If these people don't know who you are, you mean no more to them than a shadow.

Our friends are simply those whose features we recognize, and whose characteristics we know. This rule of acquaintance applies to goods as well as people. We buy the article or the package or the brand we are familiar with because we know it—just as we nod to the men and women we know, and ignore strangers.

THEREFORE

If you don't advertise and bring your firm to the fore, you are just one of the thousands of firms in your type of business.

An advertisement is primarily an introduction, and secondarily a salesman. It makes new friends and holds old ones. It makes people know your firm and regard you in a friendly light.

To stop advertising is to stop greeting old friends and to stop making new ones.

ADVERTISING IS ESSENTIAL TO EVERY BUSINESS!
