SANDY CATCHALL

By Martin Clark

SANDY SELL-OUT: When Jess Hite sold his Sandy Oil Company to Harold Edes and Dwight Wilkenson, I asked him if the deal included the service station.

"You bet," he said, "sold everything." Then, after a moment's reflection, he added: "Everything, that is, except my wife . . . that coffee she makes in the morning's too good to let her go!"

How do YOU spell it? A few weeks ago we ran a story about 160 acres in the Aims area being donated for a youth camp by Mr. and Mrs. Eugene B. Horton. When we started writing the story, the usual question came up about "How do you spell Aims?"

Among others, Joe Buckley said he thought it was spelled "Ames," and I'm quite sure I've seen it spelled that way. After asking a number of other people, we wound up with almost as many spellings as people that were asked. An addition to "Aims" and "Ames," the two popular choices, there were also "Aimes," "Aimes," and "Amse." How do YOU spell it?

"It's A Joke, Sis, Get It?"

As some women will do, Lorelle Lee, 2 years 9 months, doesn't seem to think much of her brother Marcus' sense of humor. He's one year old. Following his elbow-nudge-in-the-ribs joke, says Lorelle: "I not only don't get it—I don't want it!" The two youngsters are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Lee, grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Lee of Sandy. Lorelle was the one who had Portland specialists going nuts a few weeks back trying to figure the cause of her infected nose, when one day she casually mentions to her grandmother that she wonders what happened to that bean she stuffed up her nose sometime ago. Yep, the bean was just where she'd stuck it. That's the sort of thing that makes me wonder what people want with TV when they have kids.

Rodeo Princess

Beverly Colt

Beverly Colt Chosen Princess For Rodeo

Beverly Colt, a junior, was selected by the members of the Oregon Trail Riders club as their princess for the 1953 Mollala Buckaroo. The Mollala Buckaroo will be held July 3, 4, and 5 on the Mollala Fair Grounds. This year will be the 30th annual rodeo.

Much Activity Noted During Past Week at Mt. Hood Golf Course

By Mrs. A. B. Bradley
 In spite of weather that is more like March than like May, the summer golfing season at the Mt. Hood Golf course has opened with a great spurt of activity. On last Wednesday, May 13, the University Club Women of Portland chartered a bus and came out to the golf links for their tournament. There were about 45 of them and they had lunch at the Club house overlooking the beautiful greens. On May 14, next day, the Sandy senior high school came out for the whole day, some 55 or 60 of them. They ate their lunch at the golf course, had their tournament, and then had a wiener roast in the evening. They had a fine time in spite of threatening weather. Tournament Due This coming Saturday, May 23, an even bigger tournament is due. The Builders Exchange of Portland are having their semi-annual (spring) tournament. Mr. and Mrs. Gene Bowman, proprietors of the golf course, are expecting about 160 men out for the whole day, starting at 7:30 a.m. with breakfast at the club house, and, later on, lunch there also. In the fall these men have another tournament and they have a wonderful time. Lu Welp, who has been greenskeeper at the Mt. Hood golf course for a number of years, has decided that it's time to retire. His place will be taken from now on by Selwyn (Pappy) Gaulke. Mrs. Gaulke (Boo) is already working there in the dining room. The Bowman's beautiful $25,000 concrete swimming and wading pools will be opened to the public within the week, also, after some last minute delays. Weather hasn't been right for swimming lately, anyway.

Sandy FFA Boys Visit Brookmuth Farms; Win Judging Competition

A. W. Dyal, prominent milking shorthorn breeder of Sandy, furnished transportation for five boys from the Sandy FFA chapter to a field day at Brookmuth farms near McMinnville, Thursday, May 7. The main event of the day, milking shorthorn judging, was won by the team from Sandy in competition with chapters from Newberg, Canby, McMinnville, and Gresham. Edwin Woody received a leather halter and two dollars for the best individual judging with Ed Schwartz, Decerial Eaton, Darold Howatt and Vernon Gilham, each receiving two dollars for team judging.
