County High In Swine Disease

SALEM — Multnomah, Jackson and Josephine counties reported 21 out of the almost 500 cases of hemorrhagic septicemia, the most prevalent disease in Oregon during October, reports the state department of agriculture.

Willamette valley-southwestern Oregon counties reported 88 out of the well over 100 cases of the second largest disease in Oregon during October, infectious keratitis. This pink eye disease of livestock was found in the following numbers: Marion county, 27 cases; Yamhill county, 24 cases; Jackson county, 36 cases; and Josephine county, one case.

Clackamas, Marion and Yamhill counties contributed almost 96 per cent of October's fourth largest disease, swine erysipelas. The breakdown was: Clackamas, 54 cases; Marion, four cases; and Yamhill, 30 cases, four of which were fatal.

Brucellosis was the third most prevalent livestock disease two months ago. Out of the state's 122 cases, eight were in Douglas county, one in Lane, six in Malheur, one in Multnomah, 10 in Polk and one in Washington county.

SANDY GRADE SCHOOL NEWS

BY LAURA ADAMS
Mr. Earl Shiply, a clown for 36 years, is to be featured at a National School Assembly December 17th.

This year the school is going to have two school Christmas trees in the main hall. Each student, if possible, will bring one ornament to donate to the school. We will then save the ornaments for trees in future years.

Weather permitting, our playground will continue to be landscaped. The next thing to be done is to lay culverts in the creek bed and then level the surface.

Last Friday's game with Orient was cancelled because of Orient school being closed.

We have a game Friday with Gresham at 6:00 in the evening.

December 6th the volleyball team lost a game to the Juniors with a score of 13-36.

Because of snow school was closed early the 7th much to the student's delight.

The PTA is going to purchase some more equipment for the Safety Patrol. The members appreciate the rubbers and mittens very much. About 40 members attended the skating party December second.

Mr. French's class has been making Christmas Posters. The students have elected new class officers who are: President, Mike Evans; Vice-President, Susan Baker; Secretary, John Emra; Sergeant of Arms, Dolores McDonald; Housekeeper, Jane Radford.

In Mr. Lane's 8th grade class Patty Radford and Mr. Sutherland made a nice Hawaiian and South Sea Islands display.

All the first grade students sang for the Sandy Womens club last week.

In Mrs. Krebs' 2nd grade class Steven Hiebert and Clayton Nelson carried out a good-will project for the needy this Christmas. In three weeks the children brought their extra nickels and pennies and Thursday turned over $5.21 to the Kiwanis Club for their worthwhile purpose.

The children in Mrs. Ellis' room have their candles finished that they have been making for Christmas. The students have been learning how to borrow and carry in arithmetic.

The students in Mrs. Spahr's and Mrs. Will's classes have been making Christmas gifts for mother. There have been many students absent from both rooms lately because of the snow and ice.

Teachers who were absent the past week were Mrs. Sutherland and Mrs. Rech on Monday and Mrs. Callaghan.

Seed Potatoes Undergo Testing

The annual inspection program for certified seed potatoes has moved into its final phase with the "reading" of greenhouse test plots in Oregon State college greenhouses.

Jack Waud and H. E. Fennell, OSC certification specialists, report that four greenhouses have been planted with more than 70,000 potato seedpieces as part of the final inspection of growers' fields. The seedpieces represent samples taken from 199 fields belonging to 83 growers in counties. The four greenhouses will be filled at least once more before this year's inspection program is complete.

Samples now in the greenhouses represent fields in Clackamas, Crook, Deschutes, Harney, Jefferson, Klamath, Malheur, Marion, Multnomah, and Umatilla counties. Baker, Columbia and Washington counties will have samples in the next planting.

Potato growers who wish to produce certified seed potatoes have their fields inspected twice to make sure their potatoes are disease free and are a pure variety. But Waud says this isn't enough. Sometimes a virus disease can remain masked — that is, not show any symptoms during a particular season. And it's also possible for a field to become infected so late in the season that the disease doesn't show itself before potatoes are dug.

That's where the greenhouse test comes in. If any disease is being carried on or in the seed potatoes, it usually shows up in the samples planted in the greenhouses. Bill Raymer, OSC plant pathologist, helps the certification specialists inspect the greenhouse plots to make sure disease symptoms aren't missed.
