"PGE ELECTRICITY helps us get more money for our nut crops"

... says W. M. Hays, Newberg, Oregon

"We depend on electricity for both drying and processing chores"

"SPEED is one of the most important factors in the profitable operation of a nut farm and processing plant. The grower who can hit the market a few days, or even a few hours, early with properly dried filberts and walnuts usually realizes up to 3 cents a pound more for his crops.

Since installing modern electrically controlled dryers and processing equipment in the Rex Nut Company which we operate, we have been able to cut processing time over 50%, and take advantage of higher market prices. We now handle between 700,000 and 800,000 pounds of nuts a year and our operation is so efficient and streamlined that we can handle double that amount if necessary."

Nut drying and processing is just another way PGE electricity helps Oregon farmers prosper. Why don't you call your nearest PGE farm expert and have him show you how electricity can help you LIVE BETTER... ELECTRICALLY.
