

MT. HOOD . . .

The Mountain Grange held its regular business session on Saturday November 1. The first order of business was the memorial and draping the charter for Reme Beauvais by the Grange chaplain, Hettie Blaisdell.

First and second degree obligations were conferred upon Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Opperman of Cherryville by Robert Mount, Past master of Pomona Grange.

The lecturer Bessie Rogan began her program with-group singing with about 17 people taking part and Susanne Mac Donald as accompanist. To complete the program there was a showing of photographs of beautiful views of Oregon.

During the business session the group voted a contribution of $10 to the Inter-Club Council's Santa Claus Trail contest fund and also a contribution to the Hoodland Fire Department.

Guests that evening besides Mr. Mount were Mrs. Mount, past chaplain of Pomona Grange, V. Dell Butler, Sandy Grange and Mrs. Catherine Anderson of Tigard Grange, now residing at Faubion.

Hostesses for refreshments were Hettie Blaisdell and Adie Griffin.

ton. Mrs. Cook is the mother of Mrs. Hettie Blaisdell. There were ten people present at the meeting.

At a "Santa Claus Trail" committee meeting Monday evening at the Golf Club, some decisions were made as to classes and prizes to be awarded in the forthcoming Christmas outdoor decorating contest sponsored by the Mt. Hood Inter-Club Council.

It was tentatively decided to divide the entries into about three classifications with a 1st and 2nd cash prize to be given in each class and also a plaque to be awarded for each person to keep as a more permanent remembrance of his winning.

The candle-lit meeting was rather suddenly ended when a tree crashed into the back of the club house.

Some misguided Halloween pranksters descended on the Mountain Grange Hall, by car, and carried the benches which are usually kept stacked on the front porch when not in use, across to the Sleepy Hollow bridge. There, they proceeded to dump them in the river. They were recovered the next morning by Richard Petrie, Pat Rogan and Charles Fielding.

A surprise birthday party for Ann Lee Ecret was an event of last Saturday. Hostess for the occasion was Elaine Plaster of Brightwood. Guests present were Joan Grambo, Dottie Bromley, Wilma Heyn, Margaret O'Dea, Jane Lewis, Betty Meyer and Emily West. Much enjoyed by the group was a weenie-roast with all the trimmings, on this beautiful autumn day, and a special birthday cake baked for Anna Lee by Elaine's mother, Mrs. Dewey Plaster.

Mrs. Charles Rubbert of Wildcat Creek entered Emanuel hospital last week for surgery. The Rubberts have been building a home in the Wildcat area, having moved from Kelso, Washington.

Congratulations are in order to Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Dowell of Cherryville. They have a new baby son, born October 27. The young man, named Mark Thurman, weighed 7 pounds and 10 ounces at birth. BULL RUN . . .

By Elizabeth Haggstrom
The Aims Costume party last Saturday night in the Community Church, was a great success. The costumes were as varied as the wearers and the games were much enjoyed. Among these, the most laughable for the spectators, was a relay with the men donning women's clothes and women a man's suit, . . . each contestant to go to a certain point, return, remove garment and go to back of line. Believe it or not, the men won but at the expense of the clothing. Not much left of it.

The Trueb family won first prize on costumes. They wore authentic Dutch costumes with the two adults wearing wooden shoes. Second prize went to the Cavemen, Edward and Donald Steele, who wore bur-lap 'skins' and carried a club (baseball bat). Little David Kitchen won a special prize for his cute portrayal of Sherlock Holmes, complete with pipe. The costumes varied from the hobo and darkey to the gunman and city dude with a clever note by the Pastor and wife. They wore no costumes, just hand printed slips on each. Mr. Goertz was Earl E. Bird and Mrs. Goertz was Lotta Worm!

Cookies, coffee and cider were served as refreshments and the party closed with the showing of color slides taken at former parties and picnics.

This week starts the month's activities with the First Aid Class on Tuesday evening. There is only one more class after this week's.

The Aims Community Club met this Wednesday, November 5 with Marie Thomas.

The planned potluck for the Aims Community Church was postponed as that was the evening for the consolidation meeting on Corbett schools.

The regular Bible study will be held on Thursday evening at the Goertz' home.

Next Wednesday is the regular meeting date of the Bull Run Community Club.

Rain makes driving more risky than snow, according to a National Safety Council study. The changes that occur during snow are apparent to most drivers, but the hazards of rain are not generally recognized as dangerous. Too many drivers do not make allowance for the reduced visibility and traction.
