4-H Club Round-Up

4-H cooking club members at Boring demonstrated their cooking ability just before Christmas, according to Mrs. G. Zimmerman, Community Chairman. They baked thirty dozen cookies to put in Christmas baskets to be distributed in the area.

Older 4-H Club members interested in attending the Oregon 4-H club conference at Salem Feb. 4, must fill out a Standard Report Form—and story of the county 4-H office by Jan. 13.

Each county in the state may send one boy and one girl to the conference. The program at the conference is based on knowing your state government. Those attending will meet many of the State officials and learn about the various departments of state government. They will learn about government by seeing it in action.

To be eligible to attend, club members must have completed three years of 4-H and be at least 16 years of age by Jan. 1, 1960.

Delegates to attend from Clackamas County will be selected on Jan. 16 by a committee which will go over the records submitted and interview each candidate.

Four delegates will be selected during the conference at Salem to represent Oregon at the National 4-H Club Congress in Washington D. C. in April.

A new 4-H Beekeeping Club was recently organized in the Niney-One area of Clackamas county. Leader of the club of eight members is Armin Netter.

Beekeeping is one of over 30 different projects available in 4-H. This project helps club members learn about bees and their care. It also provides information about honey-producing plants, pollination of fruit and seed crops and teaches members how to produce honey.

Club members enrolled in the project must own and care for one or more hives of bees. They also collect and mount specimens of honey-producing plants.
