

This Videll Reed logging truck didn't quite make the grade on lower Meinig Road Wednesday, Sept. 13 about 4 p.m. and his trailer failed to clear the corner, tipping the truck upside-down in the ditch. According to Ron Bryan, driver of the vehicle, the accident was due to a side-heavy load, failure to clear the corner with the trailer, and the steep side slope of the road. It took two and a half hours and the joint efforts of two log trucks to right the truck. This corner has been the scene of numerous accidents within the past year. (Sandy Post photo)
