J. Green Injured

Sandy high school teacher James S. Green, 28, was injured in a traffic accident Monday night. He is the son of U.S. Rep. Edith Green.

The car he was driving struck a power pole at E. Burnside street and Fairview ave., near Gresham.

Green was taken to Gresham General hospital where it was said he was suffering from head injuries.

The Green car swerved to avoid hitting a car driven by Bernice Kleiber, 17, of Gresham, according to Multnomah county deputy sheriff Jerry Baumgartner, who said he saw the accident. When Green's car struck the utility pole, the pole toppled and struck Miss Kleiber's car. She was treated at Gresham General hospital for shock and later released.

Princess Sriatun Sukawati of Indonesia danced for the large crowd attending the foreign exchange student dinner at Sandy high last Saturday. The dance, whose unpronounceable name translates as "the bumblebee," depicted in the quick and subtle hand movements and colorful costume the buzzing little bug who flies amongst the flowers. Sriatun said she has danced since the age of six. She is attending Madison high school this year. (Sandy Post photo)

St. Jude's Opens Doors To Patients and Public

Sandy's newest achievement, the gleaming St. Jude's Nursing Home on the hill, welcomed its first patients Monday. Eleven patients were moved in, two of them local people, according to Rev. Rene Bozarth.

Mrs. Tom Boothby of Sandy is Head Nurse at the nursing home and Rev. Bozarth says all 14 secular employees hired to date are from the Sandy area.

Dr. Stanley Welborn, the physician in charge, will be host for a Coffee Reception in St. Jude's Home between 3rd and 4th on Scenic Drive in Sandy on Sunday, Feb. 24 from 2 until 6 p.m.

St. Jude's occupies the completed building which was begun as the Sandy Memorial Hospital, and is a convalescent and nursing home operated by the Society of St. Paul for the Episcopal church. Built and equipped at a cost in excess of $300,000, St. Jude's in Sandy has 59 patient beds as well as a large out-patient department specializing in Geriatrics.

Living quarters for the Episcopal monks who are in charge of the care of mer patients in St. Jude's have been provided on a second floor level known as Mt. Resurrection Monastery. Since Brothers will not be in residence in the monastery until mid-March, that area will also be open to the general public on Sunday afternoon.

Pioneers Win Another, Nine Straight in Wilco

By Norman Fox

It's nine in a row for the Sandy Pioneers, as they downed the Scappoose Indians 50-39 on enemy ground Tuesday night.

The game was not a thriller as compared with some other games, even though Scappoose took several one-point leads in the third quarter. Sandy got off to a good start, grabbing an 11-5 lead, but settled for a 13-11 quarter advantage. Dan Nichols led the Sandy cause with six points, and Lyle Waite kept the hosts in the game with nine.

Carl Sandstrom came up with six in the second period as the Pioneers stretched their lead to 27-22 at halftime.

The Indians closed the gap in the third quarter, and held scant leads, but Sandy managed a 38-35 score at the quarter rest. Gerald Hale was good for six, and Mick Hoffman hit a set shot in his first appearance since his bout with mononucleosis.

Scappoose's offense collapsed in the final quarter. The team hit only four free throws for their total scoring. Bill Hudkins sank three from the line, and Jerry Kucera dropped in one. Sandy totaled 12 points, all on field shots.

Nichols and Hale shared team and game scoring honors with 12 each. C. Sandstrom followed closely with 11. Dale Carpenter scored seven, Chuck Croston added four, and J. Sandstrom and Hoffman hit two apiece.

Sandy's 39 per cent from the floor was sub-average again, but good enough to get them past the Indians whose record now reads 2-7. Rebounds, as usual, told much of the story, as Sandy men grabbed 36.

Bank Hosts Area On Anniversary

Sandy's Clackamas County Bank will be celebrating three anniversaries with an "open house" reception from 9 to 3 next Monday.

F. Stefani Sworn In

The third member of the Clackamas county board of commissioners, Fred G. Stefani, was sworn in before a packed courtroom. The 48-year-old Republican mayor of Canby replaces the late Charles E. Latourette, who died suddenly Feb. 10.

Commissioners Stan Ely and Darrell Jones, in making the appointment to the $9,540-a-year-job, sidestepped the recommendations of the central committees of both the Republican and Democrat parties. The Republican Central Committee put its weight behind Eric Fisher, who was defeated for a commissioner post in the last election.

The Democrat Central Committee asked that the selection be from among Robert Elkins, Michael McKernan and Hal White.

After the swearing-in program Dr. Paul Dutton, newly-elected chairman of the Republican Central Committee, said the appointment was acceptable to him, although he had not seen Stefani for several years.

The new commissioner is a lifelong resident of Clackamas county, born in the Canby area. He attended Canby schools and served several terms on the Canby city council. He is married and the father of two children.

John Metsger Attends Meet

Sandy Postmaster John R. Metsger attended the Mid-Winter Conference of Oregon Chapter No. 11 of the NAPUS which was held Feb. 15 and 16 at Cottage Grove.

Principal speakers at the conference were Robert B. Clifton, inspector in charge, and Jay Christensen, assistant to the regional director. Other dignitaries present included numerous personnel from the Seattle Regional Office and Robert Moon from Washington, D.C., who gave an informative, illustrated explanation of the new "ZIP" (zoning improvement program) system of mailing.

Another first for the state of Oregon was the new educational program designed for the benefit of all postmasters. This was very well received and highly successful.

Metsger, who is president of the Oregon Postmasters Assn., reported approximately 140 postmasters attended the conference.

One of the milestones marked by the open house is the bank's 52 years in this community.

This year, says Howard Berger, Executive Vice President, the bank will also be observing the 100-year milestone of the dual system of banking.

Another anniversary the local bank observes this month is its 13th year in its present building.

The officers and staff of the bank are urging the community to come in on Monday and help celebrate this triple anniversary with them. They have planned refreshments for all and will have orchids for the ladies and balloons for the youngsters.

Mrs. Eugenia Alt, President of the bank, says the past year has been one in which deposits and loans increased by about $400,000 and total assets by half a million dollars.

H. Berger Will Speak To Kiwanis

HOWARD BERGER

Howard Berger will speak on "The Bank's Role in the Community" at Kiwanis "Ladies Night" this month.

Berger, who is Executive Vice President of Clackamas County Bank, Sandy, will show a film depicting 100 years of the dual banking system in America. This system came about in 1863 when President Lincoln signed the National Currency Act.

It was this act, Berger points out, that established National Banks to operate along with the already established State Banks. It created a national currency, where before each bank had issued its own.

He will also explain a number of later developments, such as the Federal Reserve Act of 1913.

Some of the girls of Girl Scout troop 717 put on their uniforms and practiced at the cookie-selling they'll begin today. The cookies looked so good they had to try them, so they haven't any doubts about how well they will sell. From left are Donna Hutson, Connie Pullen, Michelle Steffl, Susan Drew and Lenna Swails. Chamber Favors Business License

The Sandy Chamber of Commerce passed a resolution in which they expressed their favor of a city business license, with details to be left to the discretion of the Sandy City Council.

The resolution will be presented to the council. John Mills reported at Tuesday's Chamber luncheon that the council's recent budget meet brought out a stumbling block to the city's purchase of the Meinig property for a park and city hall site.

This property, or any other such property contemplated for purchase by the city, could not be bought "on time," Mills said. He pointed out that the city council is barred from obligating future councils.

Mills said that he, as an individual, thinks this year's budget will probably exceed last year's budget by approximately $9,000.

"You can't expect people to vote bonds for $35,000 for a park, desirable as this property is, when sewers, water, streets and fire protection are going to have to be extended," Mills said.

Area Brochure

Marv Prestwood reported on an area development meeting at which chamber committee heads discussed compilation of an information brochure. The brochure would present Sandy area activities so that persons interested in coming into the area to live or to go into business will have this information.

Paul Henderson, who favored the chamber's putting out such a brochure, said it will "take a lot of leg work and cooperation from business people, ranchers, utility and recreation people."

Prestwood said Chuck Croston, Chamber secretary, is getting many inquiries. He added that the initial meeting to discuss the matter had been one of committee chairmen Harold Edes, Paul Henderson, Dick Steffl, Phil Jonsrud and himself.

Student Fund-Raising Builds 'Foreign' Fund

The latest word, though unofficial, on the fund to bring Sandy another foreign student next year, is that the total will probably top $1,000.

Sandy high students are responsible for accumulation of the largest portion of this—approximately $700. The four classes vied with each other in thinking up and promoting money-making enterprises. Supt. Charles Croston says three classes—freshman, junior and senior—raised funds in excess of $1 per student.

The spaghetti dinner last Saturday night at the high school, a project of the American Field Service Committee, was also highly successful, both financially and in entertainment value.

Over 300 people attended, stretching the food and seating facilities, but enhancing the success of the project.

The program of talks by six of the seven foreign students and one "American Abroad" returnee, found an enthusiastic audience, as did the unique and enchanting dance of the little princess from Indonesia.

The students, from countries of Europe, Africa and Southeast Asia, spoke with beguiling candor of the customs of their homelands. "My grandfather had 60 wives," said Sriatun Sukawati. Then she elaborated with, "I mean formal wives—no one knows the number of the informal wives. My father did not have that many."

Eda Valero of Venezuela giggled a little self-consciously when prompted to tell of the clothing and customs of her country. "We have clothes just like you," she said. "We have houses the same, movies, TV programs, too. We have Huck-leberry and Flintstones."

O. Hull Park Clean-Up Swings Into High Gear

The Saturday clean-up parties at the Oral Hull Park site are a rip-roaring success, says Rich Wesslink, a trustee of the Foundation. He reports a large and enthusiastic turnout of both local area residents and Gresham Elks, all of whom came equipped with shovels, rakes, cutters and such necessary paraphernalia.

At the first clean-up Duane Knapp furnished two power saws, complete with skilled men to run them. The group cut down the big cherry trees, took out the old fences and made good headway at getting rid of the brush.

At last Saturday's cleaning bee Knapp had a D-4 cat with a bulldozer on hand, again with two skilled operators, plus himself. The cat was a great help in clearing for the parking area and the new buildings.

Another project that is well under way is the thinning and pruning of the orchard. The clean-up work is always
