

Work Needed For Teenagers

The Oregon State Employment Service urges employers having summer work suitable for young people to call their local State Employment Service office.

The Employment Service now has able high school under-graduates registered to help householders with their yard work, babysitting, housework and other domestic work. Many are also registered for clerical, sales, agricultural, service, camp counselor and other full and part time summer work.

The Employment Service last summer placed more than 6,750 young people on non-agricultural jobs. These jobs helped many to finance their continued education. The number of young people seeking summer work has increased significantly this year.

The need for employers to open up employment for these qualified young people is urgent. The Employment Service urges employers to call their summertime jobs to 656-2686, Oregon City, 687-2521, Sandy Farm office, today.

Sandys Woman's Club Holds Installation

The Sandy Woman's Club held installation of officers at its June meeting last Thursday, following a potluck luncheon at the club hall.

ficer, with Mrs. William Anderson, president; Mrs. Harold Tharp, vice-president; Mrs. James Duff, secretary; Mrs. Lewis Hall, treasurer; Mrs. Duane Knapp, chairman of the board of trustees; and Mrs. Bruns also assisted as marsh-

She in turn presented friendship cups and saucers to the following retiring officers and chairmen: Mrs. Anderson, vice-president; Mrs. Hall, treasurer; Mrs. Duff, secretary; Mrs. Charles W. It was noted that during this club year the fiftieth anniversary was celebrated with a special tea, a new hardwood floor was put in the main club hall, and many fine books were added to the Sandy Public Library. The program committees presented many inter-
