Game Commission Liberalizes Upland Bird Gunning Season

A 90-day waterfowl hunt and a liberalized season for upland bird gunners tells the story of the game commission's action Tuesday in Portland when it set the bird hunting regulations for the 1963 season.

A straight 90-day season beginning at 1 p.m., Oct. 8 and extending through Jan. 5 was set for waterfowl hunters with a general bag limit of four ducks daily, eight in possession. A bonus of two mallards in the daily bag and four mallards in possession will be allowed in counties bordering the Columbia and Snake river areas.

These counties include Baker, Gilliam, Malheur, Morrow, Sherman, Umatilla, Union, Wallawa and Wasco counties. The bag limit on ducks will allow not more than two wood ducks in the daily bag or in possession, and one hooded merganser in the daily bag, one in possession. There will be no open season on red-heads or canvasbacks.

Goose Limit
The goose bag limit is identical to last year with three per day and six in possession. The daily bag may be increased to six providing three or more are snow geese. The possession remains the same. One Ross' goose will be allowed in the daily bag or possession this year.

The commission set the snipe season from Oct. 26 through Dec. 9 over the entire state with a bag and possession limit of eight and eight.

The black brant season was set for Nov. 18 through Jan. 31, with a daily bag and possession limit of three birds.

Upland bird gunners will have a pheasant season beginning at 8 a.m., Oct. 12 and extending through Nov. 24 in all areas of the state except Malheur county. A seed harvest problem here influenced the commission to delay the opening until Oct. 26. The general bag limit was set at three cock pheasants per day and 12 in possession.

In Malheur county the bag limit was upped to four cock pheasants per day, 12 in possession. Also one hen pheasant will be allowed in the possession limit in Malheur county from Nov. 16-24.

Quail Season
The general quail season will run concurrent with the pheasant season state-wide, with the bag limit set for 10 quail per day in the aggregate, 20 in possession.

In addition, quail gunners will be allowed an extended season in eastern Oregon from Nov. 25 through Dec. 31 under the same bag limit regulations. There will be no open season on bobwhite quail.

Chukar hunters were allowed a long season and an increase in the bag and possession limits over last year. The Hungarian partridge season will also run concurrently with the chukar hunt. For these birds the season will run from Sept. 7 through Dec. 31. The bag limit was set at eight birds per day in the aggregate, 16 in possession.

Previously, the commission established seasons for sage grouse, blue and ruffed grouse, band-tailed pigeons and mourning doves. The mourning dove hunt will extend from Sept. 1-30, bag and possession limit of 10 and 20; band-tailed pigeon, Sept. 1-30, bag and possession limit of eight and eight; blue and ruffed grouse from Sept. 7-22 in eastern Oregon and Sept. 7-15 in western Oregon, bag and possession limit of three and six; and the sage grouse hunt from Sept. 7-15 in Harney and that part of Malheur county south of highway 20, bag limit and possession limit of two and two.

What's Cooking?

By SARA SEWELL

Now that many of us have returned from vacations we are again interested in creating in the kitchen. The cookie jar is empty and the food supply in general is at a summertime low.

First, I would like to share with you this easy and very delicious recipe for roasted chicken which I got from my sister-in-law, Mrs. George P. Sewell of Gadsden, Ala. I used it this last Sunday and let it cook while we were at church. After preparing minute rice, frozen peas, and bringing out the fruited jello salad, dinner was ready in a jiffy.

Oven-Roasted Chicken
Place the pieces of a 2 1/2-lb. frying chicken in an ungreased 9" x 13" baking dish with the skin side up. Spread over this 1 can of undiluted cream of chicken soup and 1 can of undiluted cream of mushroom soup. Place in a 325 degree oven and bake for 1 1/2 hrs.

You do not need to salt the chicken as the salt in the soup seasons it. It bakes to a beautiful golden brown. Children like it. After removing the chicken from the pan you may dilute the drippings and use as is for gravy, or make regular chicken gravy. Serves 6.

Pie Cherry Salad
1 can pie cherries
1 pkg. cherry gelatin
1 envelope Knox gelatin
1/2 cup sugar, pinch salt

1 No. 2 can pineapple chunks
1/2 cup Sauterne
1 cup chopped pecans (if desired), grated rind of 1 lemon and 1 orange

Use all juices including that of the orange and lemon to dissolve the two gelatins but limit liquid to 3 cups. Add sugar and grated rinds while hot. When cool add fruits and nuts. Save a little of the pineapple juice for cheese dressing. This salad may be served with or without the following dressing.

Dressing
Blend in electric mixer two 3-oz. sizes of cream cheese, 1/3 cup mayonnaise, pinch of salt. Add enough pineapple juice to Chill. Serves 8-12.

The above recipe was given friends, Mrs. Wayne Kerns, also of Gadsden. Her daughter, Margaret, gave me the following idea for making a tasty cake frosting.

Peppermint Frosting
Crush a good-sized stick of peppermint candy and sprinkle on top of 7-minute frosting after it has been spread on the cake. She used it on a yellow cake. I plan to use it on a devil's food cake as the flavors of chocolate and peppermint are very good together. If you have collected new recipes during the summer or if you have favorites you are willing to share, please mail them to me in care of The Sandy Post or leave them at the office on Main St.

Early Fair-Goer Comes to 56th

CARL JOEHNK

Officially a part of 40 Clackamas County Fairs before retiring several years ago, Carl Joehnk was greeted by friends when he visited the 57th County Fair Aug. 16.

It was the 55th he had attended on the Canby grounds, making a total of 56. He is one of the few remaining who attended the first and only fair held on the Gladstone Chautauqua (now S.D.A. church) grounds. That was in 1906 and Helen, his bride of two months, accompanied him. She was with him again at the 1963 fair, whose fair board treated them as luncheon guests for their long association with the fair.

Designer and builder of many of Clackamas county's winning displays at the P.I. and Oregon State fair, Carl is regarded as the county's most faithful fair-goer.

As he has many times before, the 82-year-old Canby retired farmer was a blue ribbon winner again in 1963. He showed the best sheaf of alta fescue in the agricultural products show, which he served many years as superintendent. Earlier he had been secretary, chief entry clerk and for three years had managed the entire show.

Right Lighting Reveals Beauty

Have you ever been horrified to see a lot of wrinkles when you look in a mirror lighted by fluorescent tubes? Don't despair, you don't really look that old! Someone just put in the wrong kind of fluorescent light, and it's easily changed. There are actually seven colors of white fluorescent tubes. In a bathroom, bedroom or kitchen use the Deluxe Warm White. This creates a warm atmosphere, is kind to skin tones, foods and all warm colors.

If you living room is blue or green then the Cool White tube should be used to enhance the color of the furnishings. If it is furnished with warm colors, then use the Deluxe Warm White.

Over 4000 major operations have been performed aboard the white hospital ship S. S. Hope during its two voyages and nearly half a million people have been examined and immunized.

At Cottrell—School Opens For Fall Term

Cottrell grade school will open Tuesday, Sept. 3. The bus will follow the same routes and will leave school at the regular time. School will open at 9 a.m. and be dismissed at 11:30 the first day but will be in regular session on Wednesday.

Hot lunches will be served beginning that day. The cost will be 20 cents for students.

Students are asked not to purchase supplies until they have come to school on Tuesday, and are given a list of required supplies.

All first graders must be 6 years of age by Nov. 15 to be admitted.

A picnic party went from here last Wednesday morning to Tolovana park near Cannon beach. Mrs. Harold Lundy took her mother, Mrs. Sandblast, also Mrs. Charley Wilkinson and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Watkins.

They went to the Peter Markvardsen home at Tolovana park. They were joined by Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Brook of Pacific City, formerly of Bull Run and Dagmar Knutson.

The Markvardsen home has one of the most attractive flower gardens around that beach. Their patio has a huge display of fuchsias for background, and the picnic lunch was enjoyed in this fuchsia garden with warm sunshine. For color and arrangement the flowers attract much attention and many people stop to take colored pictures.

Wayne Light, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Light, now of Redmond but formerly of Cottrell, has won honors in the FFA Deschutes county fair.

Wayne was named champion showman, taking the grand champion and reserve champion dairy female titles on a pair of Jersey cows and first prize on his senior Jersey cow, also senior Jersey heifer, a senior Holstein heifer and a junior Holstein heifer. Wayne is a senior this fall at Redmond high school. His parents now operate a dairy.

Column Comments

COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT

BY DAVID E. PASSON
County Extension Agent

As Bob Smith mentioned in last week's column, he will be leaving the fair state of Oregon in a few days for Davis, Calif. Bob will be working on his Master's Degree during the next 10 months or so. During Bob's absence I will be writing this weekly column.

I want to take this opportunity to invite comments, both good and bad, as the weeks go by regarding the material written in this column.

Extension agents are actually change agents in one sense of the word. Our job consists of answering questions, providing information on technology, and teaching new techniques, in an effort to bring about change. These changes are usually thought of as benefiting the producer.

A new herbicide property applied may in time save the growers several hundred dollars in weed control cost.

An irrigation system used scientifically, based on information gathered through moisture detection devices, may increase a grower's yield by as much as a ton per acre.

Who Benefits?
Who really benefits from these changes? Who reaps the profit when a grower increases production? Or when a grower is able to lower the cost of weed control through use of a new herbicide? Is it the grower? Not altogether. Increased production, or a reduction in production cost may help a grower stay in business a little longer, by helping him to realize a little profit but the consumer actually reaps the profit through a lower food cost.

Food Costs Relative
The housewife will say her food cost has never lowered yet, but she will have to admit also that it hasn't gone up a great deal the last 20-30 years in relation to many of the other products she buys.

In 1920 the family provided 120 hours a month to buy food for his family of five. In 1940 it took 57 hours, and today the average provider works slightly over 37 hours a month to buy food for his family of five. In other words, only 21 per cent of a working man's dollar in the U. S. is spent for food, compared to 50 per cent in many European countries and as high as 90 per cent in some areas of Asia.

These figures may not be much consolation to the housewife when she sees the figures ring up on the grocery cash register, but she can thank the farmers and, we hope, the extension service when she finds enough cash left over to buy new clothes or a new hat.
