—Bustling Around BORING—

★ ★ ★ ★ By MRS. JOHN OLDS

MO 5-6929

BORING--We literally ate the dust of outboard hunters this weekend in Boring, for the county road department generously oiled and graveled 212 and the road running up Amascher hill to Boring--and cars galore traveled thereon.

Among those out for a deer were Mr. and Mrs. Norval Naas and Carl, Mr. and Mrs. Byrdette Byrd, Mr. and Mrs. John Gantenbein, Don Verdoorn and sons Larry, Ronnie and Leon, Eller Storms, Elbirt Davis, A.B. Comer and son Donald, Jerry and Gerald Hale, Elwin Jackson, James Hoffmeister, and John Kramer.

Boring members of the Sandy high school Pep club were happy with the dust, which helped bring real support to their Saturday car wash project at New's Richfield station. Working as hard and fast as they could were Cathy Valberg, Janet and Carol Meier, Melva and Myrna Richey, Linda Moore, Judy Shutes and Marcy Kociemba. They were delighted with the community's response.

Mrs. Louis Brant has a petition asking for improved service and rates from West Coast Telephone company, initiated this week. Persons interested in signing can contact her during the day at Western Farms Food store and in evening at home.

Mrs. Jean Bjork, a passenger, received a fractured leg, now in traction. We hear that Jean will have to spend a number of weeks in the hospital. Mrs. Helen Gottman, another passenger who manages the Boring school cafeteria, was badly shaken up but is home again. In the meantime, Lynn Bjork is staying with a friend, Mary McKenna, and Jack Bjork, who has been ill for some time with an ear infection, is staying with Mrs. Mary Layng during their mother's hospitalization.

Rev. Paul Ackerman and Mrs. Ackerman went to Washington this weekend to visit the minister's father and their daughter, who is a freshman at College of Puget Sound, Tacoma. Mr. Jensen of the Gideons preached at Boring Community Methodist church in Rev. Ackerman's absence.

Mrs. Mary Layng was hostess for a wedding shower honoring Delores Gregson Saturday evening. Delores' mother helped serve refreshments afterwards. Despite hunting season and late vacations, there were some two score guests.

Workmen are finishing the new gymnasium at Boring school, and this phase seems much slower than watching the structure go up. Sanding and finishing floors, doors and walls is painstaking work—but it's going to be a dandy when it's completed.

Despite the weather, we have a feeling of winter on the way when we see how homeowners are getting their places in shape. A.B. Comer is building a new well house on his property, the Mervel Adamsons have had work done on the roof, and Ross Zulauf has been working with gravel and cement during the past week.

Brad Murphy marked his fifth birthday last Wednesday.

Rodger Jackson, son of the Leonard Jacksons, celebrated his seventh birthday Sunday with a family dinner.

The L.E. Meier family went fishing this past weekend.

Third grader Marcia Liepold is back at school this week after being treated like a queen the week I stayed in bed with my broken arm. She fell off a horse a week ago Sunday and is wearing her left arm in a cast.

Dr. Henry Osibov, Oregon Education association research director, was guest speaker at a meeting of East Section County Council PTA Wednesday evening at Estacada grade school. He spoke on the tax referendum.

Fire Marshal Ollie Peterson and his men thank everyone in the community who put names and addresses on their mailboxes--or even just box numbers--it speeds the work of men responding to emergency or fire calls. Much valuable time is lost when numbers are not easily seen, or are not available at all.

Wednesday, all active firemen were taken to Dr. Rohrbeg's clinic in shifts to receive tetanus booster shots for their protection. Sunday evening, Chief Jay Wescott responded to a first aid call when Jim Valberg and an unidentified passenger were injured when Valberg's dune buggy went out of control on B street in Boring.

A week ago Sunday, the Heroert Rolph Jr. home on route 2 burned when a fire started in the furnace home. The Rolphs were taking daughter Kathy to college, so no one was home. A passerby turned in the call at the Dan Davis home. Estimated damages ran around $5,000 according to Fire Marshal Peterson.

Earlier this month the Boring Volunteer fire department responded to a call on Haley extension when the Albert Davis car caught fire. Davis threw dirt on the fire and kept it from gaining ground. Men also answered a call to a truck accident at route 1, box 72 when a Mr. Price rolled his load of logs into the ditch and suffered several cracked ribs.
