

Cycle Races Move Indoors

Indoor professional motorcycle racing returns to Portland Saturday night at the heated Pacific International Pavilion, with over 50 of the Northwest's leading riders competing on cinder course. The events will be run every Saturday night through March, 1964 and will be under the direction of Ron All, Portland race promoter. Eighteen racing events will be on each night's carding with scratch and handicap events making up the program.

Nell's Notes

James Purdy, brother of Loren Purdy, and family are moving here. Jim will run the Purdy Brothers shop, across from the Hill-Top Cafe. Always happy to welcome new people to the community.

Hope they enjoy living in our country. I'm always sure that people will love it here, cause I love it so much myself.

Our most sincere sympathy to Rose Avery, for the loss of her mother. She died last week.

We took a few days off and went down to Baker, to elk hunt and to also visit. More visit than hunt. No elk, but had a wonderful time. Spent our time with David's sister and her husband and family. Went down late at night so couldn't see much scenery, but one part of the drive I thought was beautiful.

The other side of Pendleton, on Cabbage Hill, they had put out their snow poles. The poles are red and at the top they have a band of fluorescent paint, and about 12 inches down another band. Each pole is placed behind a highway reflector pole.

As you drive down the highway it looks just like Christmas Lane. Mighty pretty.

On our way home it was starting to snow, but ran out of it this side of Pendleton. Anyhow it was fun to go on a short trip.

Everyone getting ready for Turkey day. Have to plan these things a bit ahead so that there will be plenty to eat for everyone. For the first time, in as long as I can remember, we are not eating at home.

The Hodges and the Howes are going to join forces and have a feast together. Won't know how to act, not having Turkey day at home, but bet we have a ball. Hope everyone else has a wonderful day also.

There were five tables of duplicate bridge at the Mt. Hood Country Club bridge club last Monday Nov. 11.

Winners were 1st, Arthur Lee, Gresham, and Mrs. Jerry Bechtold, Rhododendron; 2nd, Mrs. Arthur Lee, and Mrs. Gladys Deming, Rhododendron; tied for 3rd were Mr. and Mrs. Gene Bowman, Welches, and Mrs. Alvin Perkins of Sandy and Mrs. R.A. Owen, Welches.

Preceding the play was a pot-luck dinner with a delicious array of salads, hot dishes, goodies, etc. Bowman's had set up two long tables and the folks ate family style. Lots of good food and chatter.

The public is invited each Monday evening at 7:30 at the golf club.

Adventists Hear Detamore

Pastor Ira D. Follett of the Sandy Seventh-day Adventist church announced that bus service would be provided to take anyone who desire to go to the evangelistic meetings being held at the Stone Tower Center 30th and N.E. Sandy. Fordyce Detamore, world traveler and evangelist will speak each evening for three weeks, beginning November 17th, at 7:15 p.m.

Sunday night he spoke on "The End of the World or World Without End." Each evening a color reel is shown of life in the Far East. The subject tonight (Thursday) is "When the Sabbath was Changed from Saturday to Sunday." The bus will leave the Sandy S.D. Adventist church promptly at 6:15 p.m. each evening. The public is invited.

Fordyce Detamore, world traveler for the Seventh Day Adventist church, who is conducting the evangelistic campaign in Portland, will be in Sandy Saturday, Nov. 23, to give a Bible lecture at the local church.

Because of larger beef production and lower retail prices, the U. S. Department of Agriculture expects per capita beef consumption to reach 91.5 pounds this year.

Public Steno Opens Office On Mountain

Mrs. Dottie Shoup has opened a public stenographer's office which she will operate from her home on Sleepy Hollow Road and at Woodle Real Estate office at Salmon River bridge.

Mrs. Shoup, who received her education in Portland and Washington State university has a background of extensive experience as a legal secretary.
