Sandy High Rites Set

Next week is the big one for seniors at Sandy High school. Baccalaureate services are due Sunday with commencement exercises to follow on Thursday. Both are scheduled for the high school cafeteria.

Rev. Edward Neuenfeldt will be the main speaker at commencement. Susan Gantenbein is valedictorian and Everett Nishikawa the salutatorian. The exercises will get under way at 8 p.m.

Sunday's baccalaureate also is set for 8 p.m. The invocation will be given by Rev. Paul Ackerman, the scriptural reading by Rev. John Gillespie, the sermon by Rev. Thyra Strand and the benediction by Rev. Ackerman.

Musical selections will be given by the high school band and by the senior choral ensemble.

Airport Plan Is Beaten

A vote of 31,825 -- 7,151 killed all hopes for the present of a Clackamas County airport. This was to have been a million dollar facility northeast of Oregon City.

The county was to provide $150,000 annually for three years with matching funds from the federal government to build the port. The Clackamas County Coordinating Committee which has been promoting the deal feels that the heavy vote against the measure was the result of misunderstanding on the part of the public.

Such men as Bob Dwyer of the Dwyer Lumber Co. have felt that the lack of an airport was hampering the influx of new and larger businesses. There is a good deal of agreement on this point. However, many feel that such an airport could be built and run as a private enterprise. Stan Skoko has expressed this view repeatedly.

First Street Battle Won, Work Scheduled

All right-of-way deeds for the new state highway through Sandy have been signed and turned over to the state highway commission for inspection.

Construction was scheduled for this project to begin on July 1, but due to difficulties in obtaining the rights-of-way, this has been delayed until sometime in August.

A six inch water main has been laid between Pleasant and Scenic. It remains to be completed on Scenic between 1st and 3rd to tie in at 3rd and Scenic with the big main line. Much of this work must be done before the state highway commission begins work on the new routes through Sandy.

Mayor Mike Paluck will meet with the commission this week. The council will, therefore, get a complete report by June 1.

Zig Zag Complex Has New Owners

The Zig Zag store, service station and cabins complex has been taken over by Mr. and Mrs. Eugene C. (Andy) Anderson, Andy and his wife, Catherine, live at the store with their four children--Garry, 11; Michael, 10; Judy, 9; and Ronny, 6.

For many years Andy has been a transport operator for Crown Zellerbach and Pacific Molasses, but felt that this type of work kept him away from his family too much. The store looked like a fine opportunity to stay home and enjoy the family he loves. Also, he wanted to live in the Mt. Hood area. As he expressed it, "There is no place like it in which to raise children."

The city of Sandy turned out in great form for the election on May 15 on two important measures affecting everyone in the area. It was one of the heaviest votes in many years.

Fortunately, the voting population fully understood the two measures being tested. Water meters and the consolidation of the city fire department were the issues. Both were won in an outstanding fashion.

The count was: water meter, For 233 -- Against 115; consolidation, For 275 -- Against 70.

With the passage of these measures Mayor Mike Paluck feels Sandy has saved itself many thousands of dollars. He also feels the votes cast in the past against the water meters were due to improper wording of the ballot. He is certain that, when the people knew just what it was they were voting for or against, they voted correctly.

In the case of the water meters, nothing could be more fair than a method of measuring the amount of water used by a business or residence. In the matter of the consolidation of the fire district, it is quite obvious that it would cost less to operate one department than two.

There is a smile on the face of our honorable mayor that was not there a few days ago.

Dale Carpenter Signs on With Oregon State

Dale Carpenter, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Carpenter of Sandy, has received a four-year scholarship to Oregon State.

Dale has been an outstanding athlete during the years he has attended Sandy schools and was an all-state basketball player this past year.

Dale told a Post reporter, "Oregon State presents the finest in both scholastic as well as athletic opportunity. I have thought the matter over carefully and feel I have made the best choice."

Association Opens Membership Drive

The Physicians Association of Clackamas County is once more open for new membership due to many requests.

The drive will be on from May 18 through May 30 at their office next door to Dr. Noehren and across Main street from the Sandy Post.

Manager Thomas Bechtol will be on hand to explain the many benefits of the plans as well as Marilyn Zehrfeld and Diana Ball, registrars. There are two distinct types of plans and it is well to drop in an find out which one is most applicable to your needs.

This health coverage plan, which began here in Sandy, is now known throughout the country and has been praised by many medical men as being one of the best they have encountered.

Dahrens Wins Crafts Award

An unusual gold-plated hammer has been awarded to Orville F. Dahrens, Box 302, Sandy, by the editors of Mechanix Illustrated magazine.

Dahrens received the award from the national science monthly in recognition of his superior craftsmanship. The editors present seven such awards each month after studying photographs and details of the best projects submitted by readers.

The project which won the award for Dahrens is a violin which he designed and built, carving the parts entirely by hand. Purely as an experiment, he departed somewhat from the traditional form of the violin, producing an instrument which has a more modern appearance and yet retains tonal qualities that would be associated with any good violin.

The instrument is featured in the June issue of the magazine. The hammer won by Dahrens is a regulation-size tool intended for display, not for driving nails.

Sandy Students Get Scholarships

Nine students from the Sandy area were chosen to receive one-year fee remission scholarships of the Oregon State Scholarship Commission. They were chosen from over 1700 applicants.

They are: Oregon College of Education, Susan Y. Baker, Catherine V. Boothby, Carolyn L. Cooke and Robert Opperman; Portland State college, Robert C. Johnson; University of Oregon, Norman Dewey Fox.

Chosen from Boring are Kathryn Marie Wiebelhaus who will attend the University of Oregon, Everett I. Nishikawa who will attend Oregon State university and John F. Reynolds who will attend Portland State.
