Nell's Notes

By NELL HOWE
Hood-Land Reporter

This is the week for hospitals taking in some of our mountain residents. New Years Day, Emily West, of Government Camp, broke her leg while skiing, a bad break, plus torn muscles and ligaments in the knee. Emily should be home by now.

My brother, George Bistorious, was struck on the knee, while at work, by a tree they were moving, and his leg was broken, plus a cut ligament in the knee, and a chipped bone in the knee. He should be home by the weekend. Think the bed rest is good for him, looks better than I have ever seen him look. Maybe they can fatten him up.

Pat Brown, of Government Camp, broke her ankle while skiing, and she was taken to the hospital, and should be home by the weekend. Think the bed rest is good for him, looks by the time you read this. And that makes three broken legs, so there shouldn't be any more for a spell. As things are supposed to occur in three.

When I put the article in about the Jacksons losing their steel railing down the river, I left out the 36 steel steps that were washed out also. So if you should find any steel steps, or hand railing, Mr. Jackson would be more than happy to give a generous reward for their return.

The Lions Traveling Dinner had a good turnout, and everyone seemed to be enjoying themselves. Duane Hergert won the Mink Boa, the main door prize. Kathy Durr, into St. Vincents, for surgery. Rose Relck will keep her shop open for her while she is laid up. Good luck to Kathy and hope she is up and around in very short order.
