Mt. Hood Ski Areas To Get New Lifts

Additional ski facilities are planned for Timberline and Multnor Ski Bowl and are expected to be in operation for the 1966-67 season, according to information received from the Forest Service.

It was announced that a new 5100-foot double chairlift with a vertical rise of 851 feet will be installed at Timberline while Multnor Ski Bowl will get a new double chairlift of 3480 feet with a vertical rise of 716 feet. More than 2 million visits were recorded at 28 winter sports sites in the National Forests of Oregon and Washington during the 1965-66 season, said J. Herbert Stone, Regional Forester U. S. Forest Service.

The total represents about a 10 per cent increase over the previous year. Nearly three-fourths of the visits were for skiing, Stone said, although all types of snow fun are growing in popularity.

In addition to general maintenance and slope grooming on all sites, other new facilities, including a new site, are also reported to be planned for the 1966-67 season as follows:

- Mission Ridge -- Wenatchee National Forest -- New site 13 miles southwest of Wenatchee, Wash., will open with a day lodge and two double chairlifts in tandem.
- Crystal Mountain -- Snoqualmie National Forest -- Additional overnight facilities and administration building are planned.
- Snoqualmie Summit -- Snoqualmie National Forest -- New double chairlift is planned.
- Bachelor Butte -- Deschutes National Forest -- New lodge providing overnight facilities is to be completed this summer.
- Hoodoo Ski Bowl -- Willamette National Forest -- Completion of new day lodge and new double chairlift scheduled.

Mt. Hood College Urging Early Student Enrollment

While applications for admission to Mt. Hood Community College are being made daily, there is no reason to believe that admissions will be closed in the near future. Applications will be processed until September 19.

The college does not anticipate the need to stop accepting applications, however, students who wish to be assured of a registration appointment should get their applications in as soon as possible. Traditionally there is a last minute rush in the admissions office and many students delay making formal application until the time for registration has arrived. After September 1, it will not be possible to guarantee a full selection of classes for those people who are late in applying for admission.

The college will be housed in temporary quarters on the Multnomah County Fairgrounds for this first year of operation. Classrooms will be portable units especially constructed for Mt. Hood. Because of the limited number of rooms for classes, enrollment will be limited. But the total capacity of the classroom units will accommodate up to 1,000 students.

Anyone interested in applying for admission this Fall Quarter should call the Office of Admissions and Records or write or visit the college offices at 225 E. Burnside in Gresham. The college telephone number is 665-1131.

Sandy Bowler Will Compete On Pro Tour

Ruby Langlois, Sandy's first and only member of the Women's Professional Bowling Association, left yesterday for California where she will compete in the Golden Gate Pro Tournament in El Cerrito.

The tournament is the second one of three in the western half of the women's Pro Bowlers Tour and will mark Ruby's first appearance as a professional since she stepped up to the big time ranks of the WPBA last spring.

After bowling in the 6 game Pro-Am event on Friday, July 22, the Sandy pro will compete against the nation's leading women professional bowlers in the tournament rounds scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, July 23 and 24, in head-to-head competition they will roll four 5-game blocks on Saturday and one 5-game block on Sunday before the field of 80 is cut to 24.

If she survives the first cut in the grueling competition of skill and endurance, the Sandy bowler will face another 15 games of bowling before the field is cut again to 12 contestants and, if still "alive" must bowl 18 more games, after which the four top scorers will bowl a one game semi-final match. Two finalists will then bowl three games for the championship.

Ruby, who has been training and putting in long hours of practice since becoming a pro, says she has no dreams of winning, that she only hopes to "do well and to learn a lot." She explained that "Tournament bowling is the pro level requires not only the necessary bowling skill but steady nerves, stamina and the ability to pace yourself."

Hood Delegation Gets New Highway Promise

At a special hearing before the Oregon State Highway Commission last Thursday a delegation spear-headed by the Hood-Land Chamber of Commerce was given assurance widening of Highway 26 between Zig Zag and Alder Creek will be scheduled next year. Senator John Inskeep (chairman of the State Highway Interim Committee) was spokesman for the delegation and made the presentation regarding the section of U. S. 26 that is of such vital concern to people of the Hood-Land area.

Weekend traffic often is bumper-to-bumper over the entire eight-mile stretch of road, Inskeep said. He told the commission there are times when residents of the area have to wait long periods of time before being able to break into the steady flow of traffic on the highway, he said.

County commissioner Darrell Jones, who accompanied the delegation of residents from the mountain area to the conference of highway officials, said it was promised the project would be scheduled when the next session of the legislature comes to an end.

Jones said that officials recognize the traffic problem that exists on the two-lane stretch of U. S. 26 due to the large increase in the number of permanent residents in the area and the heavy travel resulting from recent recreational developments.

The chairman of the State Highway Commission, Glenn L. Jackson, said he was well aware of the situation caused by the "terrific peaks" and that it will be placed on a "high priority" list.

Others who attended the hearing as part of the Hood-Land delegation were Rep. Richard Groener, Phil Barker (a representative from the Bureau of Land Management), Jack Sills representing the Bend Portland Trucking Co., Chamber president Dr. Roy J. Carothers and Chamber members Don Chamberlain, Ed Cook, Leon Fields and George Staggs.

Those wishing to read the material prepared for the Highway Commission are welcome to do so. There are two copies -- one is at the Zig Zag Inn and the other is at the Barlow Trail Inn.

Weather Perfect for Kiwanis Fly-In Breakfast on Sunday

The 9th annual Kiwanis Breakfast is over, but will be long remembered by those who attended. Sunday's weather was perfect -- clear blue sky, a scattering of baby plump-clouds for accent, and appetite sharpening, sunshine providing just the right amount of warmth. Some 1415 breakfasts were served to hungry customers by the hard-working Sandy Kiwanis and their wives, assisted at the tables by the Girl Scouts, and Rainbow Girls, Boy Scouts and Explorers assisted in the general clean-up afterward.

Everything went off without a hitch except some delay was caused when one of the new stoves failed to work properly, reported club president Olin Bignall. Bignall said that his group was more than rewarded for their efforts by the fine attendance and wished to thank all who came and helped to make possible the club's support of community service projects and aid to the Kiwanis Crippled Children's Camp.
