Hood-Land Happenings

By the SNOOPER

BY EILEEN ANDERSON
Substituting for Marge Carothers

Your original Snooper asked me to fill in, as you know, so she could have a couple of weeks of relaxation . . . AND PLAY GOLF. As of this writing, I have yet to see her on the golf course! However, there seems to be another indoor game that she showed terrific proficiency at last Monday! She had many coaches . . . namely, Ethel Annis, Vi Collier, Maxine Hickey, Janet Hill, and Phyllis Sparley. The afore mentioned bowling group, at a small but lively gathering, gave Marge a unique party at the Brightwood Tavern on Monday. There were the traditional birthday goodies such as cards, liquid refreshments, cake and all. The cake, baked by Ethel, looked as revolting as a Salvador Dali original . . . and the guest of honors loving cup was really something else! Then there was Wednesday which was another surprise . . . right, Marge?

Golf is a great game, but getting a group of girls together for same on a mutually agreeable day is no easy task. Monday mornings were set aside at Bowman's for Ladies Golf play, but as each Monday rolled around, fewer and fewer found it convenient. We are going to try Friday next week, so if you are interested call Mardell Baessler at 894 and she will give you the details. Ray Novotny and Marsh Glos were two among 420 conservation advocates who attended the 31st annual convention of the Order of the Antelope on Hart Mountain National Antelope Refuge near Lakeview last week. This is an annual trek made by the very hearty (the brochure announcing the event states "the largest accommodations in the world, all outside rooms with a view") . . . in antelope language that means sleeping bags under the stars! A large group from Portland, including Monte Ballou and his Castle Jazz Band, joined the antelopers for this big stag party in the wilderness. As one other person so deftly put it . . . this is one time the four-legged antelopers were probably looking for refuge from the Refuge!

Young Ray Novotny, Jr. sailed from Boston on July 15 for Vietnam. His wife, Andrea, and children are making their home with Agnes and Ray awaiting arrival of their furniture and belongings from the east. Then they will set up housekeeping in Gresham until Ray, Jr. returns. Another young man on his way soon for Vietnam is Mrs. M. A. Whitney's grandson, John. She recently returned from a trip south where she visited both with her grandson, who is stationed at El Toro Marine Base, and son Richard of Rhododendron. Gratitude and good luck are extended to all these young men who are trying to help solve and end this bitter battle. Christi Dudley had a "battering" experience on Monday. Like all types of vehicles will at times, her bicycle went out of control and toppled its driver into the gravel, resulting in one badly bruised, scratched and broken - armed girl. Cheer up, Christi, you have an excellent and legitimate excuse for not having to do the dishes and all those boring chores! Marge Carothers is not the only birthday celebrant . . . also on my list are Emily Woodward who had her day last Thursday, and Greg Hill of Brightwood. Another birthday note: Katri Aiskog was wished a happy 90th birthday some time ago through this column, but somehow the greeting read happy 19th . . . of course, everyone knew it was a misprint because no one of that tender age could be the mother of such a handsome mature gentleman as Viljo!

Visitors continue to come to the mountain. Cmdr. and Mrs. (Cynthia and Jack) Nunneley and their three children from Vallejo, Calif., are spending this week with Cynthia's father R. Admr. Flynn (Neil) at the Flynn home in Wemme. Dr. and Mrs. Ted Casey of Vancouver enjoyed a few days at Secombs cabin. Everyone was pleased to see Consuelo again . . . only wish she could have given us all her rendition of the Hawaiian Wedding Song . . . this little four foot plus lady can project the most unbelievable volume and tone I have ever heard. Also visiting was Linda Blaisdell who spent a long week end from her duties at Portland Sanatorium to be with her parents and friends.

Lois Boget's son, Bud Bart-ruff, traveled from Kentucky to visit with relatives and friends. Of interest to many will be the news that Lois and Cece will have a very popular piano playing addition to their Zig Zag Cellar, starting this Friday night. Better stop by and listen to the diversified renditions of Murray Mac.

If you haven't stopped by Gay's Kache, you should. Each week seems to bring more interesting merchandise into this fun little shop in Rhododendron.
